Elderly Woman's Helper Overcomes Blindness

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Today is Shirley Hume's 24th birthday.

She grew up in Fillmore, N.Y., earned a bachelor's degree in sociology and social work, was news editor of her school paper, and was one of 35 persons selected nationwide to serve as a home missionary in the United Methodist Church's US-2 program.

Shirley worked at York's Epworth Village, a treatment center for emotionally disturbed teenagers, and in a children's home in Cedartown, Ga. Now she cares for 96-year-old Mrs. Laura Davis of Lincoln as a housekeeper and companion. A remarkable, active career as Shirley celebrates her birthday.

More remarkable yet when you consider Shirley is legally blind.

At York, she served as program director and "I also worked myself into a lot of public relations," she recalled, which took her all over Nebraska.

Shirley can distinguish light and dark, colors (if they're distinct), and movement, "so I had transportation problems," she smiled. She traveled mostly by bus, arriving in towns and staying overnight.

"I would get to know people much better," she said, "and it would make more impact" on those she talked with. For that reason, she explained, her closeness to Nebraska's people made her fondness for the state grow.

She related her attitude toward her blindness, which she's had since birth, through a conversation with Vance, a blind boy she worked with in Georgia:

"Aren't you sad because you can't see?" he asked Shirley.

"No, Vance," she had replied. "There are so many ugly things in the world I don't have to see. I don't know if a person is black or white because I can't tell. I can't see if a person is wearing an expensive suit or one from a bargain basement."

She doesn't have those barriers to break down in getting to know people, she said, adding "The Lord may take away a particular sense," but allows others to be enhanced at the same time.

Children, too, "are more willing to give and more willing to understand" her handicap, she said.

When her two-year service with US-2 ended, Shirley said she wanted to come back to Nebraska. There were no openings. Her family in New York wanted her to come home, but "jobs were tight there too," she recalled.

She decided to visit friends in Nebraska in the meantime.

"It was like a homecoming for me." Though rejection letters admiring her credentials piled up, she said "I really felt in a sense that the Lord wanted me to stay here and work."

On the last day of a self-imposed deadline for job-hunting, she won the job with Mrs. Davis. Although she is devoting all her energies to her present job, she's looking ahead.

"I'd like to get back into social work, with pre-schoolers or the aging," she said. She considers her current experience valuable "because I'm learning how to care for the elderly," rounding out her work with children.

Does she want to stay in Nebraska?

"I hope so," she said, outlining her goals of "more intellectual enhancement," and that includes a masters degree in social work or special education, marriage and raising a family.

BAKING CINNAMON APPLES . . . 'a piece of cake' for Shirley, despite blindness.

Water-Cleanup Veto Overridden

. . . Spending Limit Buried

Washington (AP) — The 92nd Congress finished its business and adjourned Wednesday night after two years of work highlighted by enactment of a $30.2-billion revenue-sharing bill, giving 18-year-olds the right to vote and a standoff on the Vietnam war.

Anxious congressmen adjourned and headed home for a neglected re-election campaign after overriding President Nixon's veto of a $24-billion water-cleanup bill and rejecting his $250-billion spending limit.

More than two-thirds of the 533-member House had left town by adjournment time, leaving the House without a quorum to act on the $6-billion highway bill, which also would have authorized $3.4 billion for mass transit.

The bill was resurrected and passed by the Senate Wednesday night — and then died in the House for lack of a quorum.

Deadlock Overcome

The compromise was worked out by House-Senate conferees who Saturday night had declared themselves hopelessly deadlocked and any new highway bill dead.

Senate conferees won the one-year extension instead of two but none of the mass transit money will come out of the Highway Trust Fund at House conferees' insistence.

As adjournment of the session approached, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, joined majority leader Mike Mansfield in making the traditional call to the President to inform him the Senate was ready to adjourn.

The senators exchanged pleasantries with the chief executive for about two minutes.

House-Senate conferees accepted Senate rejection of President Nixon's $250 billion spending limit request in the push for adjournment.

52-12 And 247-23

Nixon vetoed the $24-billion, three-year water pollution control bill after calling it a "staggering, budget-wrecking" measure that included $18 billion more than he requested. The Senate overrode the veto 52-12 and the House 247-23.

The House accepted Senate rejection of the President's $250 billion spending ceiling by voice vote despite Nixon's assertion it would place the blame for inflation and a future tax increase on Congress.

The House originally voted to give the President unrestricted authority to trim the budget by $7 billion to meet the limit. The Senate voted to prohibit cutting any one program more than 10%.

No Ceiling

But the Senate voted Tuesday night against any spending ceiling, rather than enact even limited authority for the President to cut Congress-approved programs.

The House and Senate also sent Nixon a $3.6-billion stopgap spending authorization in the closing hours of the session for foreign aid.

This capped House-Senate foreign aid funding for the second year in a row, so fierce this year that it deadlocked both authorization and regular money appropriation of foreign aid.

An anti-noise bill was sent to Nixon Wednesday night after backers finally overcame the objections of one congressman.

The Senate-House compromise bill will permit the Environmental Protection Agency to set standards on noise of construction and transportation machinery, motors and engines, and electronic and electric equipment. Citizen suits could be brought against the government or others who fail to follow the mandatory requirements.

Search Narrowed Down To 2 Areas

Juneau, Alaska (AP) — The search for the missing plane carrying House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs and three others centered around fog-shrouded Peril Strait in southeast Alaska and around Portage Pass near Anchorage Wednesday night.

Loggers on an island in Peril Strait, 75 miles southwest of Juneau, reported hearing a light plane and then an explosion Monday.

Six hundred miles to the northwest, in the Portage Pass area near Anchorage, an Air Force searcher said, "I think this is where we'll find the airplane."

Capt. Dale Roth, who piloted a helicopter to the timberline above Portage Glacier 50 miles southeast of Anchorage, explained that "no Alaska pilot would fly all the way to Juneau without making radio contact." The last radio contact before the small plane disappeared Monday was near the 2,500-foot Portage Pass on the ascent out of Anchorage.

The pilot, Don E. Jonz, 38, of Fairbanks, was on experienced Alaska aviator. With him and Boggs were Alaska Rep. Nick Begich, 40, and Begich's aide, Russell Brown, 37. Boggs had been campaigning for Begich, and the group was flying to Juneau after an appearance in Anchorage.

Heavy fog and low clouds hampered the search Wednesday. Only a few of the 46-plane search party that was ready to take off at dawn were able to do much scanning before weather forced them down. Pilots at Juneau said they could not even see the noses of their own planes.

An Army mountain rescue team prepared Wednesday to climb into the Portage Pass area so they could get a look above the timberline, which was obscured by fog, rain and snow. The helicopters couldn't get above that point.

Mrs. Boggs, who came to Elmendorf Air Force Base in Anchorage Wednesday, told a news conference she was "very hopeful" that her husband and the other three men aboard would be found alive.

Pilot Lost Certificate Temporarily In 1966

Washington (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration said Wednesday that exactly six years ago it ordered the emergency revocation of the flying certificate of Don E. Jonz, pilot of the airplane missing with House Democratic leader Hale Boggs.

But an air transport license was reissued to Jonz Aug. 26, 1968, and he is completely qualified and certified as a pilot, the FAA said.

FAA files showed that on a takeoff from Miami International airport Oct. 18, 1966, the Piper PA28 piloted by Jonz was 700 pounds over the legal weight.

Other violations charged were use of an unapproved fuel tank installation and failure to carry in the plane an airworthiness certificate, a registration certificate, weight and balance information, and the aircraft flight manual.

One Passenger On Boggs Plane From Nebraska

Palisade (UPI) — One of the passengers in the missing plane containing House Democratic leader Hale Boggs has been identified as a native Nebraskan.

Authorities in Palisade said Russell Brown, 37, was a graduate of Palisade High School and McCook College. He later attended the University of Nebraska.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Brown, still reside in Palisade.

Brown has been living in Anchorage since last January when he became an aide to Alaska Rep. Nick Begich, who was also on the missing plane.

Churches Plan Welfare Center

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln's four Seventh-Day Adventists churches are planning to build a new "inner city welfare center," a church official said Wednesday.

L. W. Wasemiller, chairman of the churches' building committee, said that construction of the new center will begin as soon as possible, perhaps within a week.

He said the congregations of all four churches have given their approval to the project.

The new facility, to cost an estimated $105,000 to $110,000, will be located on the southeast corner of 26th and Y Streets, Wasemiller said.

The building will be a one-story brick veneer building 50 feet wide and 100 feet long with a partly exposed basement.

The churches are financing the construction and operation of the center. The churches now have a "Good Neighbor House" at 1933 U. Services now provided there will be transferred to the new facility.

Mrs. Hilda Roper, a policewoman for the Lincoln Police Department will be volunteer coordinator of services at the new center.

She said the basic purpose of the center will be simply to provide help to those who need it. She said the center would provide furniture, clothes and counseling.

In addition, she said, classes would be offered in cooking, sewing and home nursing. She said students at Union College and volunteers from the four churches would be working at the center.

Wasemiller said that Seventh-Day Adventists churches across the country support similar centers in other cities.

"Part of our work is helping people," he said.

Testimony Ruled Totally Irrelevant

Clearwater, Fla. (UPI) — Circuit Court Judge Robert L. Williams ruled Wednesday that testimony concerning the content of Glenn Turner's "Dare To Be Great" program is "totally irrelevant" to Turner's trial on securities sale violations charges.

The ruling, which seemed to take both prosecution and defense by surprise, throws out much of the testimony from 23 state witnesses.

Consultant Is Hired To Help Set Up Tuition Aid Program

By PATRICIA KOZA

United Press International
Although still working under a cloud of legal doubt, the Nebraska Commission on Higher Education Wednesday decided to proceed with hiring a Lincoln consulting firm to help set up the state's new tuition aid program.

The commission approved without dissent an arrangement with Selection Research Inc. to establish a system which would spell out how state funds would be distributed among Nebraska college students. The initial cost to set up the system was estimated at $12,430, plus up to $3,000 for printing costs.

Don Clifton and Dr. Dan Farhlender of Selection Research appeared before the commission to explain how the firm would act as an "interface" by working with information on student financial needs obtained through the college entrance examination board's scholarship service.

Farhlender said the consulting firm would use the scholarship service's computerized information on individual student needs as a base from which to determine how to disseminate the state funds.

The consultants promised the system could be operational by Jan. 1, in time for the commission to distribute the $500,000 allocated by the Unicameral for the spring semester.

The commission took the action after former state Sen. Lester Harsh of McCook told his colleagues although the 1972 law setting up the program must still be tested in the courts, "we still have a charge to get this program off the ground."

The tuition aid plan suffered

Europe's Only Panda Is Dead

Moscow (UPI) — An-An, Europe's only surviving giant panda whose unrequited love affair with the London Zoo's panda Chi-Chi made them world celebrities, has died, the director of the Moscow Zoo said Wednesday. He was 15.

The black and white furry An-An died Sunday, three months after Chi-Chi's death in London, according to director Igor P. Sosnovsky.

The Nebraska Association of Independent Colleges and Universities (NAICU) must now take the longer route through Lancaster District Court to resolve questions of constitutionality, said Dr. Vance Rogers, Nebraska Wesleyan University president.

"We're trying to fulfill a commitment as faithfully as we can," he said of the promise to the Legislature that the plan would be tested by the courts before it is put into operation.

The commission is also financially restricted because of an attorney general's opinion issued while the law was being debated in the Unicameral last spring. The opinion held the plan was unconstitutional, and on that basis the state treasurer has refused to honor expense

2-Car Crash Near Minden Claims 1 Life

Minden (UPI) — A 55-year-old rural Hastings man was killed and two persons injured early Wednesday night in a two-car crash at a Kearney County road intersection 6 1/2 miles northeast of Minden.

Authorities said the fatality was riding in one car with his wife.

The victim's wife was taken to Mary Lanning Hospital in Hastings and was in serious condition in the intensive care section.

Everett Keubler, 55, of rural Gibbons, who was alone in the other car, was taken to Good Samaritan Hospital in Kearney where he was listed in serious condition.

Further details were pending the notification of relatives.

Swanton Man Dies In Crash

A Swanton man was killed Wednesday afternoon in a one-car crash one mile north and two west of Swanton, according to the Nebraska State Patrol.

The patrol said Joseph L. Barta, 47, was northbound on a county road when his car went out of control and rolled over.

vouchers to reimburse members of the commission for costs incurred so far.

During the meeting the fiscal 1973-74 budget of $1,093,886 presented by temporary chairman William Dobler, editor of the Lincoln Star. The spending plan is based on the Legislature's promise to appropriate $1 million annually for the program if it survives the constitutionality test.

If upheld, students could receive up to $500 annually to make up the difference between tuition rates charged by public institutions and private schools, which generally charge higher rates.

Although legal opposition to the program is based on the question of separation of church and state, the NAICU—which represents the state's independent institutions—is basing its friendly suit on the question of whether a student has a true freedom of choice when it comes to selecting a school.

Federal Contractors Pay

Washington — The Republicans filed a required financial disclosure statement that showed that nearly half the $1.8 million reported cost of the Republican National Convention was paid for by defense contractors and other corporations doing business with the government and by businesses regulated by federal agencies. The 60 corporations, which are barred by law from making direct political donations, provided the money by purchasing $860,000 worth of tax-deductible advertising in the convention program book at the rate of some $10,000 a page. The Democrats sought similar corporate revenue, but with far less success.

Lieutenant Suspended

New York — A police lieutenant was suspended for allegedly visiting a Brooklyn junkyard trailer that has been identified as a secret Mafia meeting place.

Hanoi's Le Says War Not Settled

Saigon (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger is in Saigon to review the status of Vietnamese peace negotiations with U.S. and South Vietnamese officials. The North Vietnamese say peace is no nearer despite his series of secret talks in Paris.

President Nixon's national security adviser arrived Wednesday night from Paris, where he had another secret meeting with the North Vietnamese on Tuesday. He will confer with President Nguyen Van Thieu Thursday, the White House said.

In Paris, Nguyen Thanh Le, spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation at the Paris peace talks, told reporters: "Up to now the Vietnamese problem is not yet settled."

Indicating no change in the Communist position, he added: "Up to today, Oct. 18, the Nixon administration refuses to bring an end to this war of aggression, refuses to abandon the traitor Nguyen Van Thieu."

Le refused to discuss the recent flurry of secret meetings between Kissinger and Xuan Thuy, head of the North Vietnamese delegation, and Le Duc Tho, politburo member who has returned to Hanoi.

He declared that the best hope for peace would be President Nixon's acceptance of the Viet Cong peace plan, which calls for a U.S. pullout from South Vietnam and replacement of Thieu's regime by a tripartite provisional government. There is speculation that the U.S. position is centered on working out a cease-fire arrangement that would result in the release of American prisoners of war and a political settlement that would not give the appearance of a sellout of Thieu by the Nixon administration.

Sources here speculated that Kissinger's mission in Saigon may be to convince Thieu of the necessity of some sort of coalition or dual government with the Viet Cong. Thieu has said repeatedly he never will accept a coalition government with the Viet Cong.

Two days ago in Washington, Nixon told a gathering of wives and families of U.S. prisoners of war that he will insist upon two main conditions: There will be no settlement that "imposes a Communist government on the people of South Vietnam" and "under no conditions will we abandon our prisoners of war and our missing in action."

Kissinger declined to speak with newsmen when his Air Force jet landed at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut air base after the 14-hour flight from Paris.

He was met here by U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, Army chief of staff who is making a week-long military assessment that appears tied to the peace negotiations, and Gen. Frederick C. Weyand, Abrams' successor as commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam.

From the Vietnamese side were Nguyen Phu Duc, special adviser to Thieu on national security matters, and Ambassador Tran Kim Phuong, recalled from Washington last week for consultations.

Accompanying Kissinger were William Sullivan, deputy assistant secretary of state, and four staff members of the

Nguyen Thanh Le

National Security Council — Winston Lord, John Negroponte, James Engle, and Peter Rodman.

Thieu, meanwhile, has been meeting since Sunday with his top advisers, including Ambassadors Phung and Pham Dang Lam, the chief of the South Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks, who also was recalled for consultations.

McCollister, Thone Vote For Override

Washington (AP) — Voting to override President Nixon's veto of a $24.6-billion water pollution control bill in the House Wednesday were Nebraska's GOP Reps. John Y. McCollister and Charles Thone. Rep. Dave Martin did not vote.

Marxist Government Opposition Spreads In Chile; Man Is Killed

Santiago, Chile (AP) — Riot trucks using high-pressure jets of water broke up a crowd of antigovernment demonstrators Wednesday in downtown Santiago. A man was reported killed in another disturbance, the second fatal incident in a weeklong wave of unrest.

Two-thirds of Chile was under a state emergency as opposition to the leftist government spread. A midnight to dawn curfew remained in force for the second night in the country's two most populous provinces, Santiago and Valparaiso.

It was reported from

Quillota, 50 miles northwest of Santiago, that a 21-year-old man was killed Tuesday night when a military escort with a gas truck opened fire on a group throwing stones.

The truck was not participating in a nationwide strike of trucks that began Oct. 10. The walkout has been followed by sympathy strikes and violence that the government calls "sedition." A truck driver was shot dead last week in an incident between drivers.

Malleco Province, 350 miles south of Santiago, became the 19th of Chile's 25 provinces to be placed under a state of emergency, a form of martial law.

The Confederation of Business and Small Industry, which claims 110,000 members, continued its sympathy shut-down strike with the trucks. Numerous stores and shops kept their shutters closed.

Food stores and pharmacies were exempted by the confederation from shutting down.

Anti-Marxist high school students stayed away from classes and so did some university students. The Chilean College of Physicians declared a 48 hour sympathy strike.

Another F111 Vanishes Over No. Vietnam

Saigon (AP) — A second swing-wing F111 — the plane the Air Force claims is the safest in its supersonic arsenal — has vanished on a mission over North Vietnam, the U.S. Command reported Wednesday.

The plane disappeared from radar screens Tuesday after it descended for its radar-guided low-level target run, spokesmen said.

They added that both crewmen were missing, but they had no comment on a North Vietnamese claim that an F111 had been shot down and the crewmen killed. A North Vietnamese spokesman in Paris identified the crewmen as James Hockridge and Graham Allen Upton.

Other F111s were continuing attacks against targets in North Vietnam, military spokesmen said.

Two squadrons of the controversial $15 million jets have been operating out of Thailand for less than a month. The first sent into action disappeared on Sept. 28 and both crewmen are listed as missing.

Irish Protestants Call Truce With British

Belfast, Northern Ireland (AP) — Protestant vigilantes called a truce with the British army in Belfast Wednesday night but diehard mobs continued to battle troops in sporadic rioting around the city.

British army officers announced after a secret two-hour parley with commanders of the hardline Ulster Defense Association that both sides will "do all in their power to take the heat out of the situation."

"Our war with the British army is now over," said Tom Herron, a UDA vice chairman who was in on the conference. "We agreed to try to stop the situation deteriorating any further. We agreed to try to cool it."

Protestant mobs, however, continued stoning British troops for the third straight day. The soldiers also came under fire from snipers of the Irish Republican Army, the Roman Catholic-based rebel movement. One soldier was hit in the leg by sniper fire and an army helicopter was fired at near the Irish border but was not hit, the army said.

The army truce with Protestants came only 36 hours after the UDA, charging the army with the "deliberate murder" of at least two Protestants in vicious rioting, virtually declared war on the British troops.

Nixon's Proposal For Ceiling Is Called 'Harsh, Inhumane'

By United Press International
George S. McGovern charged Wednesday that President Nixon's proposal for a ceiling on federal spending was "harsh and inhumane" and he challenged Nixon to a nationally televised debate at Democratic expense.

The Democratic presidential nominee voted in the Senate to override Nixon's veto of a $24.6 billion clean water bill, and against the $250 billion ceiling. A few hours later he flew to Detroit to speak to the Economic Club and pick up his campaign tour.

McGovern said the veto was "a fitting symbol of the current administration's failure to provide national leadership to stop the incessant deterioration of our environment."

Opponents of the spending ceiling protested that it would erode Congress' constitutional authority to determine spending and that Nixon might cut domestic programs rather than military expenditures.

"The Choice"

In Detroit, McGovern said: "The choice presented to us by the spending ceiling is between Mr. Nixon's large increases in military spending accompanied by substantial cutbacks on education, health care and the like, and the McGovern program to move in the opposite direction — to cut defense spending, close tax loopholes, and use precious public funds to meet our needs here at home."

Nixon met at the White House for 50 minutes with Japanese Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira and received a report on the recent Tokyo-Peking summit meeting.

The White House said Nixon will make a nationwide radio campaign speech during the weekend as well as on Thursday night.

The Republican Policy Committee, made up of congressmen, said McGovern's proposed $30 billion cut in defense spending in the next three years would cause a "calamitous upheaval."

The committee listed 141 bases in the country that might have to be closed or consolidated should McGovern's plan be implemented.

Ziegler Denies White House Directs Political Espionage

Washington (AP) — President Nixon's chief spokesman Wednesday denied that the White House directed a campaign of political sabotage, spying and espionage against Democratic presidential candidates.

"If anyone had been involved in such activities," said press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, "they would not long be at the White House" because political sabotage is "something we don't condone and won't tolerate."

"Ziegler's comments came after the New York Times joined the Washington Post and Time Magazine in publishing stories linking White House aide Dwight Chapin to a key figure in the reported sabotage campaign, California attorney Donald Segretti.

The Times said in Wednesday's editions that it had learned that at least 26 calls made from Segretti's home telephone and charged to his credit card were directed to the White House, Chapin's home, and to the home and office of E. Howard Hunt, Jr., a former White House consultant indicted in the June 17 break-in at Democratic National headquarters.

Earlier news reports said that Chapin and Hunt served as Washington contacts for Segretti, identified by the Post as an important operative in what it described as a campaign to disrupt and harass Democratic candidates.

Records Criticized

Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, in a speech to the League of California Cities in Anaheim, criticized McGovern's records on crime legislation, drug abuse, marijuana, pornography and amnesty.

"In my opinion, Sen. McGovern's election would be a disaster for this country's drive against crime," Kleindienst said.

But James Vorenberg, director of the national crime commission during the Johnson administration and co-chairman of McGovern's panel on crime and justice, said crime has risen 33% during the Nixon administration.

He challenged Kleindienst to a debate, which he said would reveal "enormous mismanagement and waste" in McGovern... makes charge.

Vorenberg charged a softening of the war on crime in the youth and narcotics areas under Nixon, and the use of federal funds for "glamorous" hardware instead of improvement of local police forces.

Lawrence J. O'Brien, McGovern's campaign manager, acknowledged the challenge to debate Nixon was the formal version of an invitation first made by McGovern in July.

Social Security Bill's Provisions Are Outlined

Washington (AP) — Here are important provisions in the Social Security-welfare bill sent to President Nixon by Congress.

Social Security cash benefits:

Widows would receive 100% of what their husbands would have been entitled to, instead of 82½% as at present. Benefits 3.4 million women. Effective January 1973.

A person who has reached retirement age could earn $2,100 in a year without loss of benefits compared with $1,680 now. Above $2,100, he would lose $1 for each $2 of earnings. Benefits 1.6 million persons. Effective January 1973.

Persons who work beyond 65 would receive a one per cent increase in benefits for each year between 65 and 72. Effective for the year 1973.

Low wage workers covered by Social Security for 30 years would receive a new special $170-a-month payment. For each year under 30 years, this minimum payment of $84.50 it reached the present regular minimum payment of $84.50 a month. Benefits 150,000 persons. Effective January 1973.

Men recipients in the future would benefit from the same retirement payment formula available to women. Under present law a woman with an identical earnings record as a man receives $10 more a month if both are entitled to the maximum payment. Effective beginning January 1973, and fully effective January 1975.

All Americans would be issued a Social Security number at the time they enter school. Effective January 1973.

Waiting period for disability benefits would be reduced from six to five months. Benefits 950,000 persons. Effective January 1973.

Medicare:

Medicare coverage would be extended to 1.7 million disabled persons now on the Social Security and railroad retirement rolls. Effective July 1.

Coverage would be provided for sufferers from chronic kidney disease who need either dialysis with kidney machines or transplants. Coverage starts 3 months after a course of dialysis begins.

The annual deductible for Part B of Medicare, which covers chiefly physicians' charges, would be increased from $50 to $60. Effective with 1973.

Persons eligible for Part A hospital coverage would automatically be enrolled in Part B unless they declined. Part B is paid for with monthly premiums. Effective July 1, 1973.

Social Security taxes:

The tax rate each for an individual and employer would be raised to 5.85% in 1973, 6.05% in 1974, and to 7.3% by 2011. This compares with the current 5.2% rate, scheduled under present law to go to 5 5/8% next year.

The maximum tax, $468 each for the worker and employer this year would be raised to $631.80 in 1973. Under present law, it would be $594.

The taxes pay for Social Security cash benefits and Part A of Medicare.

Medicaid:

The provision that all states must provide comprehensive Medicaid services to their poor by 1977 would be repealed.

Permission would be granted to the states to cut back on Medicaid programs.

Medicaid recipients could be required to pay monthly premiums when able to do so. Effective January 1973.

Welfare programs for the aged, blind and disabled:

All of the 3 million persons covered by these categories would be guaranteed $130 a month income for an individual, $195 for a couple. If they also are on Social Security, they would be guaranteed $150 for a single person, $215 for a couple.

The federal government would pay the full cost of these new national standards effective Jan. 1, 1974.

States which now pay more than these guarantees could make supplementary payments so that the recipients would continue to get their current levels.

Hruska Backs Spending Limit

Washington (AP) — Nebraska Sen. Roman Hruska voted on the losing side as the Senate defeated 39-27 the compromise debt limit-spending ceiling bill.

Trade Pact Signed By U.S., Soviets

Washington (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union Wednesday signed a breakthrough trade agreement designed to settle World War II lend-lease debts, flatten tariff barriers, grant credits and triple the volume of trade in the next three years.

Hailed by Secretary of State William P. Rogers as a step toward "creating a climate for peace," the agreement follows by five months President Nixon's Moscow summit meetings which set the negotiations in motion.

As outlined by administration spokesmen, the major provisions of the agreement include:

— Settlement for $722 million the Soviet debt of $11.1 billion in lend-lease aid extended by the United States during World War II.

— Granting of most-favored-nation treatment to the Soviet Union. If approved by Congress, this step would remove discriminatory trade barriers and put Moscow on the same footing as free world nations.

— Make the Soviet Union eligible for Export-Import Bank credits. These credits could be used by the Soviets to purchase products mentioned in the agreement, including machinery, plant equipment, agricultural goods, industrial products and consumer goods.

The United States will, in turn, import increased volumes of Soviet raw materials. The agreement states that the goal is to triple to a three-year total of $1.5 billion the volume of trade between the two countries.

Other provisions of the agreement call for each government to establish in the other's capital a commercial office, and clear the way for private firms to establish business facilities. The Soviets agreed to construct a large trade center in Moscow.

The portions of the agreement requiring congressional approval could trigger a major controversy on Capitol Hill. More than 70 senators are backing legislation to forbid granting of most-favored-nation treatment to any country charging excessive exit fees — a measure aimed directly at the Soviets' tax on Jewish emigres.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

You wonder a little who is kidding whom in the great debate in Washington over responsibility for federal spending excesses but it is a lead-pipe cunch that President Nixon is playing his usual clever political tricks and seemingly getting away with it.

The President, in our estimation, is succeeding in pinning the spending onus on the Democrats in Congress with his insistence upon a $250 billion spending limit which the House and Senate appear to be reluctant in accepting. This, he maintains, will make the Democrats responsible for whatever happens in fiscal 1973, which we already are in.

The bad that will happen, and it is now inevitable, is a whopping budget deficit. Additionally, we may end up with considerable inflationary pressure and possibly a tax increase.

But who are the bad guys in all this? Even with a $250 billion limit, the budget would be $28.3 billion in deficit, hardly a figure to make the administration look like penny-pinchers. As the situation now stands, the budget is likely to hit something in the neighborhood of $253 billion.

That means Congress and the administration are trying to fix blame on one another for spending on the basis of a $3 billion difference out of a $253 billion spending package. In our mind, this simply is not sufficient grounds on which to draw the issue.

Nixon is politicking in trying to label Congress as the spender and this becomes even more apparent when you look at some of the other details. Social Security alone, because of delayed income provisions to match benefit hikes, will cost $1.6 billion this fiscal year.

But Nixon's budget does not count this loss, thus leaving Congress counting a $1.6 billion loss in figuring the deficit and Nixon claiming that same figure as a gain. That figure alone would put the congressional and administration budget about on an even basis.

But Nixon is out campaigning, among other things, on the fact that Social Security benefits have risen during his administration. He likes to talk about revenue-sharing which has added billions of new dollars to this year's budget.

No doubt he will be telling the veterans about the modest increase given in the area of educational and health care benefits, the former, incidentally, less even with the increase than they were following World War II.

Nixon does not talk about the $4 billion cut in an $81.7 billion defense budget which was defeated in Congress with only one supporting Republican vote and with the active opposition of the administration. He says nothing about federal manpower training, housing and health care programs which spokesmen within his own administration say would be heavily cut under a spending ceiling.

In attacking Congress and the Democrats, Nixon says nothing about things like a nearly $1 billion appropriation for black lung disease benefits to disabled coal miners.

But such items begin to show you what the other part of this argument is all about. Total spending is only half the battle, if that much. The real question is not how much we spend but where we spend it.

Nixon himself has consistently proposed budgets running $20 to $25 billion in the red. It is Nixon who has popularized the fictitious and fraudulent "full employment" budget, which means you spend in terms of what you would have coming in if everyone in the nation were fully employed and paying taxes.

That is like the individual spending on the basis of what he would make if he only had the job he wanted rather than the job and salary he has. And where Nixon would cut, which he could do with or without a spending ceiling but which he won't do for political reasons, would be in all areas of social and welfare programs.

Nixon would cut in the heart and soul of the budget but not the nuts and bolts. Nixon's fiscal position is, as the Brookings Institution has labeled it, a "canard."

Absence Of Voter Interest Seen Through The Nations

LONDON — Australia, Canada, the Netherlands, New Zealand, the United States and West Germany have two things in common today. All will be holding elections within the next six weeks, and all contain a sizable number of voters who show little enthusiasm for either the incumbent government or any alternative one.

The same condition exists in Britain and France, where elections are likely within the next 12 months.

In a presidential campaign speech 60 years ago, Woodrow Wilson said that he believed in democracy "because it releases the energies of every human being." Anyone who has ever witnessed an election in a communist state will appreciate the importance of such a psychic exercise. But the increasingly fashionable view of "a plague on both your houses" now threatens to undermine faith in the democratic institutions of the Western world.

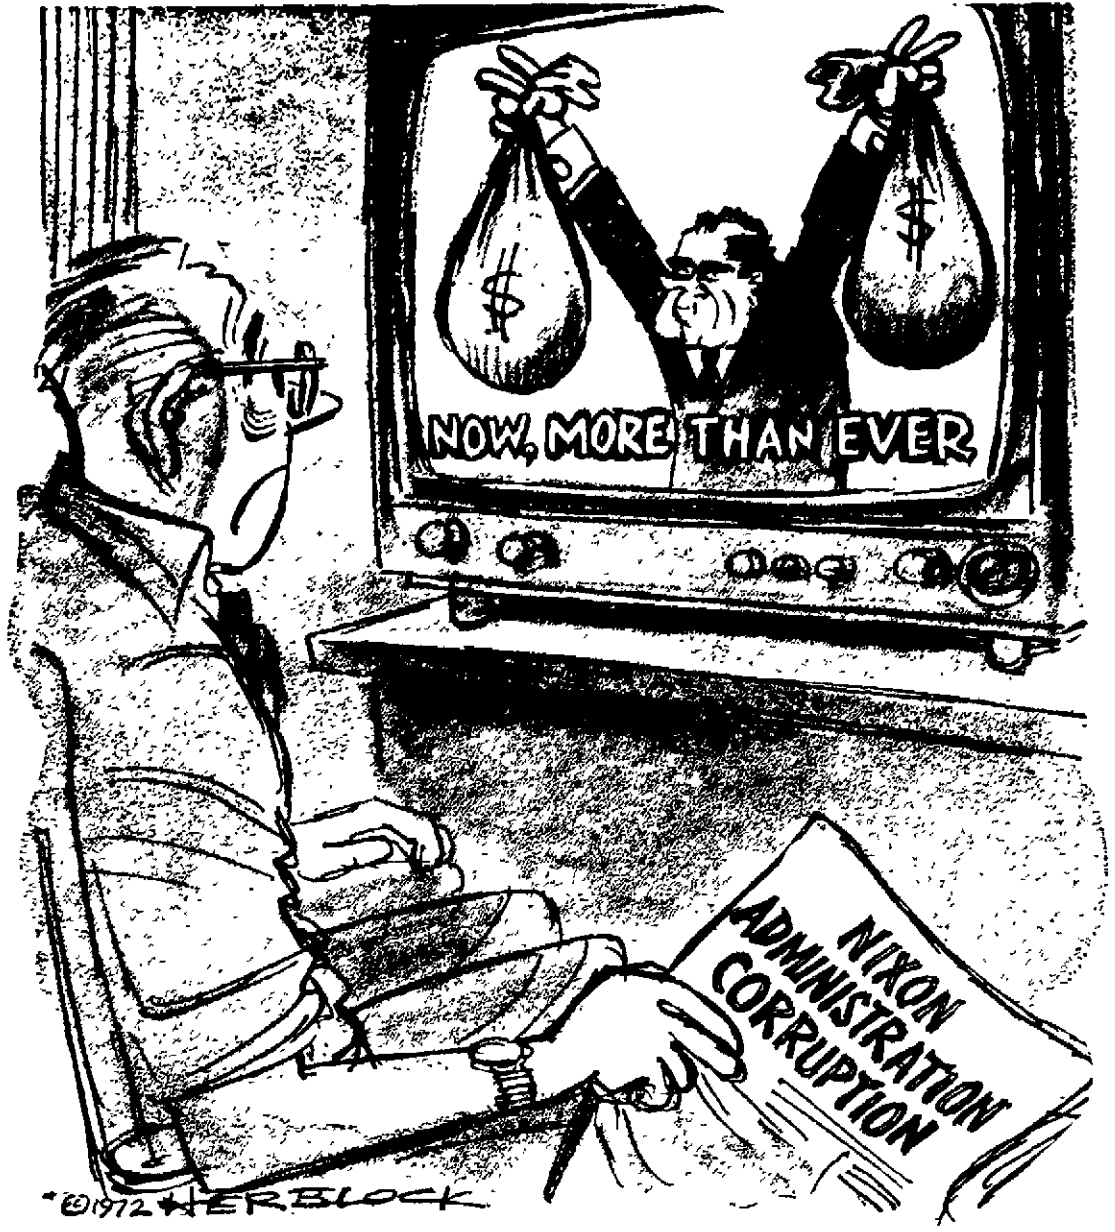

Europeans are deeply concerned about the apathy of American voters in this presidential election year. Few could argue with the Times of London's assessment: "The starry-eyed fervor that surrounded President Kennedy looks dated now." As seen from Britain, in particular, America is entering a period of political detachment.

Thomas Carlyle once wrote that, "Democracy means despair of finding any heroes to govern you, and contented putting up with the want of them." This cynical pronouncement characterizes the political state of mind of many Western democracies nowadays. In Canada, for example, there is a growing mood of discontent and a search for change among the electorate.

The situation is scarcely better in Britain. Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government has fared poorly in public opinion polls. It is not necessarily in any danger of being turned out of office, however. The Economist recently observed that "The Labor party has come through its annual conference looking rather more absurd than at any time in its history."

After surveying the stagnant condition of British political life, The Times suggested that party realignment may be in order. A subsequent letter to the editor asked: "Is it a third party we require or rather a sincere and honest group of politicians... who hold the future of our country as their prime concern and not the two-faced bickering personalities of today?" That is a question that many people in many countries are asking, and so far no one has a persuasive answer.

Legislative Candidates Reviewed

Residents of the Lincoln-Lancaster County area have been fortunate in having been represented by a legislative delegation unmatched in quality by any other, if regional comparisons are important. Progressive voting records and, especially in two notable instances, legislative leadership, describe the work done by the lawmakers from this area.

On Nov. 7th, three members of that delegation, from the 25th, 27th and 29th Districts, seek re-election to the Legislature. The quality of their challenges, from what The Star has observed, offers Lincoln-Lancaster voters excellent choices on election day.

The candidates in the three district races as a general rule do not offer greatly in their outlook on issues facing the state; for example, property tax relief and aid to education, support of the University of Nebraska, environmental protection, highway development and priorities for the future. Thus, experience should be a major factor in the voters making their decision.

In the 25th District, Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, a ten-year veteran of Unicameral service, faces Mrs. Bonnie Hubler, 29, a Unadilla housewife.

Mrs. Hubler has discussed the wide spectrum of issues in greater depth than probably any other candidate for a legislative seat.

She has taken her campaign out to the people in the district she seeks to serve, fighting against telephone rate increases and stumping for rural voter registration, demonstrating her concern for the elderly, the minorities, the mentally retarded, the imprisoned, as well as proposing sometimes innovative legislative ideas. She has waged a good campaign and no doubt would be a good state senator.

In this race, however, she faces Sen. Warner, a lawmaker of demonstrated leadership and tenacity in pursuit of sound legislative goals. Warner was chairman of the legislative council in 1967 and was speaker of the Legislature in 1969. He has fought for quality education, equity in taxation and comprehensive highway planning and development, for example, throughout his tenure in office. He is one senator who can really point to some accomplishments.

Within the Legislature he has gained a reputation for freely discussing the pros and cons of all legislation, including the bills he has sponsored. In short, he is a fair, reasonable man who works well with other senators.

Due to his knowledge, experience and leadership ability, The Star recommends that Sen. Warner be re-elected to his seat from the 25th District.

In the 27th District, incumbent Sen. William Swanson is challenged by Steve Fowler, a University of Nebraska student who ran worked under cover to help roll up votes for him in the Democratic primaries. In the crucial Florida primary, Sen. Henry Jackson contended with Wallace for conservative Democratic votes. Jackson tells us his campaign was hampered by political sabotage, not unlike the dirty tricks played on Muskie.

3. The White House strategists considered George McGovern to be the easiest contender for the President to beat. They sought, therefore, to help McGovern win the California primary, which sewed up the Democratic nomination for him.

4. Once McGovern was nominated, the White House objective was to portray McGovern as a radical and to link him with irresponsible elements who favored political violence. A Washington Post source claims White House aide Howard Hunt tried to organize "an attack" by demonstrators in McGovern's name upon the Doral Beach Hotel, which served as President Nixon's convention headquarters at Miami Beach.

Subsequent to the conventions, McGovern's campaign has been subjected to political harassment. His national coordinator, Frank Mankiewicz, gave us some examples.

White House sources tell us that the President's chief of staff, H. R. Haldeman, was the key man who coordinated the efforts to hamstring Muskie, boost Wallace and abet McGovern's nomination.

Presidential appointments secretary Dwight Chapin, who has been linked by the Washington Post to the sabotage operation, worked closely with Haldeman, say our sources. White House aide Gordon Strachan, whom Time magazine claims was also involved with the dirty-tricks department, is a member of Haldeman's staff.

Perhaps the most irresponsible of the dirty tricks was a reported attempt to shut off the runway lights on a small field in northern Florida where Senator Jackson planned to land. The senator received a report that someone had phoned the airport to cancel arrangements for lighting the runway. The call was countermanded, however, in time to prevent a serious accident to Jackson and his party.

One of the dirtiest tricks was the circulation of a phony flyer on Muskie's stationery, accusing Jackson and Humphrey of illicit sexual affairs. This hurt Muskie at the same time that it smeared his two Democratic rivals. Jackson asked the U.S. Attorney's office in Tampa, where the smear sheet was mailed, to investigate whether this violated the federal laws against anonymous political mailings. But so far, Jackson has received no answer.

Muskie encountered his worst harassment during the New Hampshire primary where phony calls and statements were made in his name. Jackson had his worst time in Florida. Someone broke into his headquarters in Miami, for example, and stole a taped endorsement by ex-Senator Harry Cain. It was too late to get Cain to tape another endorsement for use on the eve of the primary.

Dirty-Trick Tactics Embrace Political Sabotage: Phone Calls, Smear Letters, Cancelled Speeches

WASHINGTON — The efforts of President Nixon's dirty-tricks crew to disrupt and discredit the Democrats, say investigators, were carefully coordinated inside the White House. The political sabotage had these objectives:

1. When Sen. Ed Muskie pulled ahead of the President in the polls last year, worried White House aides sought to trip up the popular Maine Democrat. Muskie has complained that he was a victim of a "systematic campaign of sabotage." Some of the dirty tricks, including the forged "Canuck letter" which made it appear he condoned a racial slur, caused him serious political damage and contributed to his poor showing in the presidential primaries.

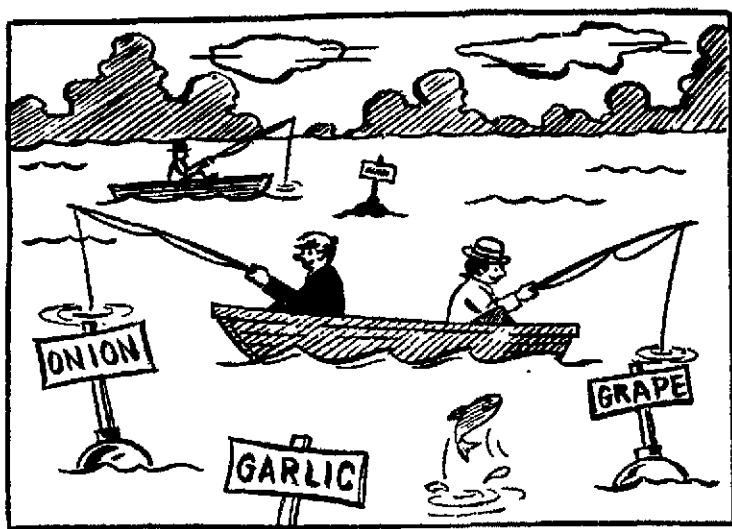

2. The political strategists in the White House concluded that George Wallace as a third-party candidate would take votes away from the President but as a Democratic contender could cause mischief for the Democrats. The White House, therefore, encouraged the Alabama governor to seek the Democratic nomination and

We had channel catfish for dinner yesterday. They were raised and processed in the fresh-water ponds that our neighbor has across the fence. In other words, he is the first "fish farmer" in our area.

He said he has been reading a great deal about the raising and processing of fish. They are now experimenting with the growing of flavored fish. Ponds are lined with a plastic film to prevent the water from seeping away. A variety of flavorings are then added to the water. The fish will absorb the taste of the flavoring that is put into the water. Perhaps you would like an onion or garlic-flavored fish. Well, it seems if onion or garlic is put into the water while the fish matures, it will then acquire the flavor of onion or garlic. Perhaps there will be a time when a family eating in a cafe can order orange or grape fish dinners for their children while they prefer curry or garlic fish.

My father who is seventy-seven years old had an unusual experience recently. He had an opportunity to meet and talk again with one of his teachers. Of course women teachers in those days did not divulge their ages any more than they do today so he was not certain just how old the lady was when she taught in the little rural school so many years ago. However, the lady is near eighty-five, he judges, and quite active and alert. They talked of many things and many students. It seems at one time there were forty-five children going to the school. This included the big boys who attended during the winter months when they could be spared from the farm work.

It was here in 1852 that Stephen Foster wrote the old song while visiting relatives. The ceilings on the first and second floors were fifteen feet high and each room twenty-two feet square. The third floor had eight-foot ceilings. Now, about the windows. They were nearly as high as the ceilings. They were beautiful windows with their many cross-bars and hung in heavy red velvet drapes with great gold ropes drawing the gently back into many folds. Such an undertaking it must have been when they cleaned windows. Slave labor built the entire house so I suppose the slaves

The Older Teacher

Lincoln, Neb.

After reading the letter from "Fed Up," I felt I must write in defense of the "older teacher."

My two small children have had so far four older teachers and four young teachers. I agree that the classrooms are somewhat more quiet in the older teachers' rooms, but there are still a few of us left who happen to appreciate that. When my child was in the so-called open classroom, it was utter chaos as far as we were concerned, and he complained constantly of headaches which seemed to diminish when moved to a "stricter" classroom. His report to me: "Gee, Mom, SHE keeps order!"

The Lincoln school system could use a few more of these teachers and administrators who believe in "keeping order." I am convinced that the children have to have quiet in order to concentrate.

ALSO FED UP

Not Afraid

Lincoln, Neb.

The Declaration of Independence stated that: "All experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed."

Perhaps this is the reason why those who yell about law and order support a man directly involved in the Watergate incident. The farmers support a man who sold them out in the wheat deal with Russia. The poor support a man who gets his funds from those wealthy enough to pay $1,000 a plate. The average worker supports a man who gives all the tax loopholes to the very rich and makes his own food cost so much he can hardly afford to eat. The Vietnam veterans support a man who asked them to fight for Thieu and then has Henry Kissinger find ways to dump him.

I really don't believe that the American people are that afraid of change. I'll take McGovern.

Defends McGovern

Lincoln, Neb.

John B. Janacek, in his October 11 letter to the Lincoln Star, makes several incorrect statements concerning George McGovern's position on the war in Vietnam.

First of all, McGovern has been one of the most ardent critics of our Vietnam involvement since 1963, not just the past few months, as Mr. Janacek implies. He has not insulted the American people's intelligence with a deceptive "secret plan" promise about which I and countless other Americans are still curious as to content. The senator's proposals to end the American role, whether one agrees or not, are a matter of public

Choice For Senator

Lincoln, Neb.

So the editor of The Lincoln Star thinks we need a new and exciting figure in the U.S. Senate. Whom is he kidding?

The Democratic candidate is older than Senator Curtis and painfully boring. He is neither a Democrat nor a Republican — he isn't even a good independent. Since time immemorial he's been running on every ticket he could find, trying to get elected to something (he doesn't care) so he can get his name in the newspaper.

If we want a publicity-seeker in the Senate, then the Democratic candidate will do. But for those of us preferring a dedicated man of principle, we will vote for one of the Senate's most respected and knowledgeable men, Senator Carl T. Curtis.

Second District Regents Candidates Are Strikingly Different

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of articles about candidates who will appear on the Nov. 7 election ballot.)

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

When voters in Nebraska's Second District go to the polls in the general election, they'll get the chance to cast their ballots for one of two strikingly different candidates.

Although a Lincoln incumbent is seeking re-election in the First District, attention in Lincoln and elsewhere is focusing on Omaha, where incumbent Kermit Hansen is facing what many believe may be a stiff election battle against Clifford B. Batchelder.

In the Lincoln race, Edward Schwartzkopf is assured of re-election since he is running unopposed.

But in Omaha, in a district which includes most of the western and northern parts of the city, Hansen will seek his first elected office against a veteran of many political campaigns.

Conservative Spokesman
Batchelder, one of the most vocal spokesmen from the state's conservative political ranks, was a six-year member of the Nebraska Legislature.

In 1970 he turned his attention to the Republican gubernatorial nomination and nearly toppled incumbent Norbert Tiemann. Tiemann subsequently lost the general election battle to Democrat J. James Exon.

As Tiemann's term was nearing an end, however, Regent Richard Herman of Omaha resigned and Tiemann appointed Hansen to the seat.

Omaha Banker
Hansen, 55, is an Omaha banker who's long been on friendly terms with the university. An NU graduate, he has served as president of the Omaha chapter of the NU Alumni Association.

Batchelder, 63, is owner-manager of an Omaha-based bank supply firm and owner of a small newspaper in eastern Nebraska.

While Hansen remains a strong supporter of the university's current status and its efforts to improve, Batchelder brings to the race a longstanding argument with the institution, an argument he has continued in the current campaign.

The challenger says he offers voters "a distinct choice" between an incumbent who is "not admitting the problems" and "who obviously doesn't see the need for corrective action" and himself, who is "pointing out the problems and who wants to see them corrected."

Hansen

Batchelder

Both say their goals are a high-quality institution, but on many issues their stances are clearly separate.

Hansen has been a leader in board approval for land purchases in the path of University of Nebraska at Omaha expansion; Batchelder has called for a moratorium on all land purchases "until the Board of Regents and the president prove they can manage what they have."

Hansen believes the university should lead the way to formation of a statewide board to coordinate all institutions of public higher education; Batchelder has suggested that each NU campus might be better served by a separate board, and he's critical of the NU System approach with a central administration.

Batchelder is highly critical of the present administration, asserting it has not done a good job of managing the university; Hansen is quick to praise NU President D. B. Varner as "one of the finest executives I've ever worked with in any field," and he has high praise for Varner's staff and the three campus chancellors.

Hansen says he generally supports the draft of new university bylaws which retain delegation of authority to the faculty and students in their own governance; Batchelder has criticized the board, alleging it has deferred major decisions to the administration, the faculty and students.

Batchelder says he would give consideration to limiting enrollment on the basis of academic achievement and "character reference" of prospective students; the board, with Hansen as a member, has endorsed steps to level-off enrollment in Lincoln by restricting re-entry of students who have not been successful in the past.

Batchelder has said the board should clamp down on controversial programming financed with student fees; Hansen has called for tighter control on student fees, but the board has been reluctant to clamp down on what its attorneys say are students' constitutional rights to free speech.

Better Quality
Both candidates are stressing better quality teaching.

Batchelder has suggested quality can be attained by better management and possibly by diverting funds from administration and research; Hansen has been highly supportive of the five-year academic plan, which he calls a "milestone" for the university, and he's urged close attention to the annual teacher evaluations proposed in the plan and in the new bylaws. He's also been the board's leading spokesman for increased board attention to academic programs.

Batchelder, author of the so-called self-defense act since ruled unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court, has called for "law and order on our campuses," charging some students are afraid to move freely on the Lincoln campus at night.

As a member of the Legislature's Appropriations Committee, Batchelder was often critical of what he called the state's "education lobby," which he said was a powerful influence seeking to expand its enrollment and serve itself.

His election would probably add strength to the minority of regents who are more often critical of the university than the more moderate majority with which Hansen has generally sided.

(Next: Batchelder claims university mismanaged.)

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Husband Prefers To Be Massaged By Beautiful Girls

By ROBERT PETERSON

Question: "My husband is 58, overweight, and for years I've urged him to take a weekly massage at the Y. But when I saw his masseur on the street last week he said he hadn't seen my husband for nearly a year. When I confronted John he said that he'd found a better massage place elsewhere. I finally wormed out the info that he's going to a downtown parlor that advertises 'massages for men only by beautiful girls.' He said they give better massages than the Y, that they don't cost much more, and that it was his business. Do I have to put up with this?"

Answer: If this is the worst of John's sins you should be grateful. At least he doesn't flaunt his preference for masseuses over masseurs. Massage parlors have been suspect for centuries. They may offer occasional hanky-panky, but police watch them closely. Should a wife decide who massages her husband? This column believes that by the time husbands and wives reach their 50s their standards of moral behavior are pretty well set and each should be entitled to do as he wishes—so long as it does not harm or embarrass the other.

Question: "We've been wed 25 years, but my wife still drops an occasional comment suggesting that I don't quite measure up to her father. He was a local lawyer who drank himself to death, but his darling daughter considers him a saint. She reminds me how considerate he was, how scholarly, how well-dressed, and how much money he earned. What am I supposed to do?"

Answer: Grin and bear it. Just about every husband suffers by comparison with his wife's father. Most wives haven't known many married men and their yardstick for evaluating males comes from recollections of dear old Dad. If he met at least average standards they tend to exaggerate his virtues, forget his weaknesses and wind up feeling the man they married doesn't quite measure up to the man who gave them away at the nuptials.

Question: "I'm a widow, 75, living alone and in poor health. My son suggests I sign over my property to him, and then move in with him and his family and they'll take care of me for the rest of my life. What do you think?"

Answer: Your son may have the best intentions in the world, but I think you'll fare better if you keep your property in your name. You might offer to turn over your income to him, in exchange for the privilege of living with him and his family. And you might consider moving to a residence for elders which offers some care. But don't sign away your property. It's sad but true that some people lose interest in folks who are without tangible resources.

Question: "I'm 52 and have been a furniture buyer for 20 years. But I'm also something of an authority on flowers and plants and have had a small greenhouse for years. I've heard about a florist's shop that up for sale and I'm itching to buy it and change occupations. Would I be wise to go into business at my age?"

Answer: Sure, if it's a good business deal and you're knowledgeable about floristry. Life is short and people should definitely do what they itch to do. People should also consider switching occupations every 20 years or so as a means of enriching their experiences and advancing their horizons.

Immigration Tax Dropped For 9 Jewish Families In Russia

•The New York Times

Moscow —Nineteen Jewish families in Moscow were expectedly given permission Tuesday to emigrate to Israel without paying the heavy educational taxes that Soviet authorities have required of emigrants since mid-July.

In the case of six families, the amount to a dramatic reversal of conditions imposed by 48 hours ago that they be to raise a total of 160,000 rubles ($195,000) in educational taxes to exercise the exit visas which they had otherwise forfeited.

The move was obviously intended to coincide with the House announcement Tuesday of a trade agreement with the Soviet Union, presumably to mollify congressional opposition to the package. It was the first crack in the stand of Soviet authorities that the taxes would be steadfastly enforced despite widespread criticism in the West.

Nonetheless, Jewish activists, on the basis of consultations Wednesday afternoon with officials in the Soviet office, interpreted the move as an exception to the rather than evidence that the Kremlin had decided to drop the educational taxes altogether.

"We think this is an episode," one Jewish spokesman said. "They want to give a gift to help Nixon at a special time, against all these attacks (in Congress). Seventy-two senators have co-sponsored a resolution asserting they would block a trade package with Moscow unless the Kremlin rescinded the education taxes."

Jewish sources said that when members of the 19 families were suddenly summoned to the Office of Visa and Foreign Registration to be granted permission, they were told they had to depart the Soviet Union by Oct. 28, or else they would have to pay the taxes.

When some asked whether another Moscow Jew who had paid 14,000 rubles in educational taxes only four days ago would get his money back, they were told, "No, and he will not be the last one to pay," according to Jewish informants.

American officials were known, nonetheless, to be privately encouraged by the gesture, which had allegedly been foreshadowed during recent talks in Washington between President Nixon and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

"At least it shows that there is some element of review somewhere along the line, some cognizance of outside pressure," one diplomat said.

But noting that none of the 19 families included the most active members in the Jewish emigration movement or even the 100 families in the Moscow area who have been waiting the longest, he added, "of course, it would have been more realistic to involve some of the more active individuals, those who have been raising the protest."

Ironically, some of the most prominent activists were engaged in a news conference with foreign correspondents, asserting that pressures on the Jewish visa applicants were increasing, at the very time that the new permissions were being granted.

Nine Leaders Of Common Market Are Aiming For European Unity

•The New York Times

Paris —The nine leaders of the enlarged Common Market arrived Wednesday for talks aimed at breathing new life into the goal of European unity.

The purpose of the summit is to lay down the guidelines on economic, monetary, social and political policies after Britain, Ireland and Denmark join the existing six members of the community on Jan. 1. There is already broad agreement on general objectives, but each leader has his own list of priorities.

Officials said Wednesday, for example, that the Belgians plan to propose a six-month study looking to the confederation of Europe in hopes of spurring moves toward political cooperation. The Belgians feel that the study, perhaps headed by their own foreign minister, Pierre Harmel, would help instill a new sense of urgency and idealism in the community.

The Belgian proposal, expected to be met with a cool response from France, would be one of the new elements on an agenda already well known in general outline. The key topics are economic and monetary union, the development of the community's institutions, and its stance toward the United States, Japan, Eastern Europe and the developing countries.

The leaders spent Wednesday in a series of bilateral talks in preparation for the formal opening Thursday of the two-day summit in the elegant International Conference Center, formerly the Hotel Majestic, which has been used for the Vietnam peace talks. It is the first time the heads of government of the three new members have joined in summit talks with the leaders of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The first to arrive was Prime Minister Jack Lynch of Ireland who promptly served notice that he hoped his new partners in Europe would join in promoting the eventual unity of his country with Northern Ireland. He met with President Georges Pompidou, who will preside over the summit, to discuss the sectarian strife that has long bedeviled the British province.

While Lynch will be discussing the Ulster violence with Prime Minister Edward Heath of Britain and others here, the subject will not figure in the summit talks themselves. The leaders have enough to do.

Heath, for example, will be making a special push for some agreement for a common regional policy. The aim would be to provide help for regions in Britain and other countries with outdated industries, just as the existing common agricultural policy supports European farming areas.

Pompidou, whose enthusiasm for the summit waned in the summer because of concern that no concrete results would emerge, said Wednesday night the aim of the session was to "make Europe a reality," with its own personality, its independence and its own positions on international problems. He said the Common Market must speak with one voice in major monetary and trade negotiations with other countries and particularly the United States.

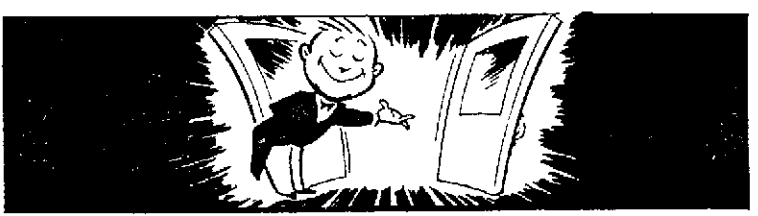

"The holding of the summit is important in itself," he said, "if only because it marks the great event of Britain's entry into Europe."

U.S., Soviet Astronauts Prepare Joint Venture

•The New York Times

Moscow — Astronauts of the United States and Soviet Union were disclosed Wednesday to have taken part for the first time in preparatory talks for a joint manned space mission scheduled for 1975.

Space officials of the two countries also indicated at the end of a 10-day planning meeting that the men for the mission would probably be selected next spring to allow for two years' training for the complex enterprise.

Speaking at a news conference at the headquarters building of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, Boris N. Petrov, a Soviet space official, said:

"The discussions have reached a stage where the participation of astronauts is both useful and necessary."

Brig. Gen. Thomas P. Stafford, an astronaut who came here Oct. 9 as part of a 27-member United States planning group, said he had discussed training techniques and the proposed flight plan for the joint mission with two Soviet astronauts.

The two, Maj. Gen. Andrian G. Nikolayev and Aleksei S. Yeliseyev, a civilian engineer, were also present at the press briefing, together with Konstantin D. Bushuyev, the Soviet manager for the joint mission.

However, both the Soviet space team and Glynn S. Lunney, manager for the American side, declined to discuss specific decisions reached at the latest meeting, their first since their discussions in Houston in July.

Lunney said the decisions involving technical details of spacecraft operation and the minute-by-minute schedules for the mission, had to be approved by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration before being made public.

The joint mission was provided for in an agreement signed by President Nixon during his visit to Moscow in May. The project, involving the docking of a Soviet Soyuz spacecraft and an American Apollo in earth orbit is designed to test equipment that would permit cooperative scientific missions and international rescues of spacecraft crews in emergencies.

At the meeting in Houston, Soviet and United States planning groups had agreed on a preliminary flight plan, in which a Soyuz spacecraft carrying two men would blast off from within the Soviet Union, to be followed into orbit from Cape Kennedy by three Americans aboard an Apollo. The two craft would dock and the crews would exchange visits.

Drug Group Raps Cooperation Lack

Omaha (UPI) — The Nebraska Commission on Drugs voiced criticism Wednesday of a lack of federal cooperation in combatting drug abuse in the Cornhusker State.

In a resolution passed by the body, meeting on Omaha's Near North Side, the commission expressed "concern" over a lack of technical assistance in developing drug abuse programs in the state.

The resolution, which was sent to the Nebraska congressional delegation and the National Institute of Mental Health, called for "better coordination and technical assistance from all federal agencies."

It was proposed by the Rev. Rex Bevins of Lincoln.

The action came after the commission approved four grant applications for drug programs and tabled a fifth proposal. The recommendations had come from the commission's grant review committee which met earlier in the day.

The largest grants given approval were to Omaha and Lincoln programs. The Omaha Action and Awareness Agency had $64,000 in state matching funds okayed for an expansion which will eventually total $1,032,534.

The Lincoln Commission on Alcoholism and Drugs was given approval for a program which will total $137,500 in total funds the first year. Of this, the commission would provide about $15,000 in "hard" funds, with other money coming partially from the community.

Also approved was a grant application of $1,500 for the Lincoln Police Department community drug program, bringing that project total to $11,479.

Omaha's Creighton University's training course in drug abuse was given approval for $16,922 in federal funding from the National Institute of Mental Health. The state must first approve the curriculum and credit hours, however.

Tabled was a grant application of over $7,000 for the Omaha Action and Awareness Agency. It would involve no state money.

During the meeting, Max Powell of Fremont, chairman of the law enforcement committee, received approval of six positions the commission may take in the future concerning legislative matters. They are to serve as guidelines for future commission work.

Members of the law enforcement and treatment and rehabilitation committees lauded efforts by the city of Fremont in its fight against drug abuse. The city was recently the scene of one of the biggest drug raids in Nebraska history.

Berg Suggests Equal Sharing Of School Costs

Democratic congressional nominee Darrel Berg Wednesday suggested that the federal government, the state government and the local school district split the cost of public education equally.

New federal income which could be derived from the closure of major tax loopholes should be returned to the states to support education, Berg told the Political Action Committee of the Lincoln Education Association.

"To qualify for the school aid, states would be required to increase the amount of state aid they are giving and to compel local districts to lower the tax levies proportionately," he said.

"The new federal aid would pay about one-third of the costs of the public schools. Ideally, the local districts and the states would also bear one-third of the burden each."

Berg said Rep. Charles Thone has exhibited a "lack of support for education" during his term in the House.

Thone voted favorably only two of seven times on "key education votes charted by the National Education Association last year," Berg said.

Playhouse Membership Shows Increase

Membership in the Lincoln Community Playhouse has increased by more than 700 members this fall, compared to last year, said John Wilson, Playhouse director.

Reporting to Playhouse board members, Wilson said membership has reached 2,468 season seats and "has every prospect of growing to 2,500 before January."

Wallace Richardson, board chairman, said membership on the board may be changed to two, three-year terms, with one-third of the members elected annually.

Board members can now serve six, one-year terms.

In other business, the board decided to hold the Playhouse Guild's 1973 Beaux Arts Ball at the Playhouse.

Royalty Plans Visit

Belgrade (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip, accompanied by Princess Anne, will pay a state visit to Yugoslavia Tuesday through Saturday on invitation of President Tito, it was announced.

Members also voted to rent the building to the UN-L Kosmet Klub for its April 6-8 production, "1776."

New board members at the meeting were Mrs. Roger Dickson, Donald L. Ferguson, Mrs. Robert Larson, Mrs. William Nye and William Schlaebitz.

Area Residents Oppose Shopping Center, Mobile Home Court

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

A shopping center and mobile home court proposed for the southeast corner of 84th and O came under fire from East Lincoln residents Wednesday at the City-County Planning Commission.

Attorney Norm Krivosha told the commission that Henry

Leavitt is requesting several changes of zone and a special permit to build the shopping center and court on a 73-acre tract.

Since a portion of the site is outside the city limits and in the Stevens Creek drainage basin, the developer is proposing to build a central treatment plant to handle the sewage from the area.

About a dozen residents objected to the proposal, contending that another shopping center on O was not needed and that the entire development would bring unwanted traffic to 84th and overcrowd the schools.

Krivosha replied that mobile home courts "don't spell doom and disaster to those who live around them," adding that the mobile homes would be in the $30,000 price range. He noted that the developer, Pacific-

Western, a California-based firm, has built similar shopping centers in a number of western states.

Planning Director Brogden, who is recommending denial of the request, said existing business zoning will satisfy the shopping needs of the area, especially in light of Gateway Shopping Center's expansion.

Krivosha replied that Gateway is some distance away, adding that the proposed shopping center would serve neighborhood needs.

Brogden also reported that approval of the development would encourage additional expansion into the Stevens Creek area.

Responding, Krivosha said the Health Department has approved the proposed central treatment plant and contended that Stevens Creek "is going to open up eventually—it's just a matter of time."

He said, "You can't stop the city from growing to the east," adding that the mobile home court and businesses would bring in substantial revenue to the city.

Another reason cited by the Planning Department for denial was the indefinite plans for the proposed East Lincoln by-pass, which might cut through the development.

While agreeing that the plans are not definite, Krivosha said in one proposal the by-pass would go along the east edge of the property and in the second—would be two miles away.

In response to questions from commissioners, Brogden said he would still object to the development even if plans for the shopping center were dropped since a portion of the property lies within Stevens Creek.

The commission is scheduled to take action on the request at next Wednesday's session.

In other business, the commission adopted a new sign notification system in the hopes of keeping the public better informed of proposed changes in property use.

On a number of occasions special permit applications citizens opposing zoning or have contended that the posted sign on the property in question was not visible or was placed in an inconspicuous spot and that they were not given adequate notice of the forthcoming public hearing.

The current ordinance requires a minimum 18x24-inch black-and-white sign, whereas the proposed amendment would require the sign to be "of such color, size and lettering that it is reasonably distinguishable by the public."

The commission rejected a recommendation requiring written notification of adjacent property owners.

Commission member Bruce Nims commented, "If we make the sign big, clear and obnoxious—people should see it."

Charles Seale, Supt. of Building Inspections, reported that no funds for additional signs have been included in this year's budget. He suggested that additional sign costs could come from either the city's Contingency Fund or from charging a "posting fee."

If the amendment is approved by the City Council, the commission will then decide on the proper sign size and color, plus information to be posted on the notices.

The commission took action on or held public hearings on:

Tuition Aid Law Faces Court Test

By United Press International

It appears if the constitutionality questions surrounding Nebraska's private college student tuition aid law are to be settled, it will have to be done through normal channels.

George Turner, clerk of the State Supreme Court, said Wednesday the court decided not to extend jurisdiction over the law in order to reach a constitutionality decision on an original action basis.

Turner said the rejection was handed down by the high court without comment.

Thus, in order to get a judicial determination on the law's validity, the normal route to the Supreme Court through the district courts would have to be followed.

The request to accept the case as an original action was made by the Nebraska Association of Independent Colleges and Universities.

The association promised a court interpretation would be sought by it at the time the law was passed by the Legislature this year.

Dr. Vance Rogers, president of Nebraska Wesleyan University in Lincoln, representing the association, said, however, a decision hasn't been reached as yet whether the district court route would be followed.

Rogers also expressed disappointment about the rejection saying it appeared to him that regardless of how the district courts rule on the law, the matter would be headed for the Supreme Court and thus "I don't see why they didn't accept the case in the first place."

The law at issue would allow private college students to get up to $500 a year in state funds.

The money would specifically be applied to the difference between the tuition rates charged by public institutions and private ones, which are generally higher.

During this year's session of the Unicameral, the attorney general's office was asked for an opinion on the validity of the law.

It was held unconstitutional and as a result, the state treasurer's office has decided not to accept any warrants written in the name of the program.

Refund Ordered By Pennsylvania Insurance Chief

Omaha (AP) — The National Indemnity Co. of Omaha has been ordered by Pennsylvania Insurance Commissioner Herbert S. Deneberg Wednesday to refund $48,937 in automobile insurance premiums charged to more than 1,100 persons in Pennsylvania in 1971.

In a prepared statement, Deneberg said the refunds were ordered because "National Indemnity improperly charged its policyholders a higher premium rate than had been approved by the insurance department."

He said most refunds will be in the $100 range with some as high as $400.

Roand Miller, National Indemnity vice president, said his company believed it was "in order" to charge the higher rates because each policyholder signed a "consent order" accepting the company's charges.

"Apparently the practice wasn't technically correct according to the department's requirements," Miller said.

Health Planners Endorse NU Nursing Program

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The board of the Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council (SNHPC) Wednesday endorsed the University of Nebraska's plans to establish a Lincoln-based four-year nursing program.

At the same time, the board directed its staff to inform the Lincoln Technical College that the health planning agency believes the city and the state should not attempt to support two associate degree (two-year) nursing programs in Lincoln.

The board, however, praised the Lincoln college for its programs in licensed practical nursing (one-year) and its other health-related programs.

The SNHPC action in effect rescinded a policy which had endorsed the Lincoln Technical College's intention to expand its nursing program into a two-year associate degree program.

The three major city hospitals had hopes that they might phase out hospital-based programs, now operating in two of the three, and endorse the tech college move to a two-year associate degree program.

But the administrators of the two hospitals said they have been cooperating with the university in its planning, and will now phase out the hospital-based education programs as NU gears up for its Lincoln-based program, which will include both two-year and four-year programs.

The Lincoln Technical College is still studying the possibility of expanding into a two-year program, but it has made no direct effort to establish one.

The college now operates five health-related training programs and will begin a sixth later this year.

W. Robert Brungard, administrator of Lincoln General Hospital, said the SNHPC action should convey to the tech college the health council's "support of the rest of its programs," while indicating the associate degree programs should be left to NU.

About the tech college's current offerings, Brungard said: "They're doing a tremendous job."

More Power Seen For Area Health Groups

A regional official from the Kansas City office of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare said here Wednesday that proposed changes in federal legislation will give more power to area health planning agencies.

The comments came from William B. Hope Jr. in remarks to one of Nebraska's area agencies, the Southeast Nebraska Health Planning Council (SNHPC).

Most of the increase in funding in pending federal legislation, said Hope, will go to expanding the number of area agencies such as SNHPC and upgrading the existing agencies.

As an example of what may come, he said, the area agencies could be granted the final approval authority on all new health facility construction which involves federal funding.

When asked if that meant the role of the area agencies is to shift from an advisory one to a regulatory one, Hope said he would describe the potential future role as a "stronger one, particularly as it relates to federal funding."

"It will put more muscle into the area agency," he said.

The role of state agencies, he said, will continue in the area of state plan development, funding approval for area groups and program development at the area level.

Hope also said he anticipates the proposed new federal legislation will allow area agencies more money for staffing.

SNHPC had previously voted to direct its staff to refine its work program and assign priorities with the help of the SNHPC executive committee.

That action came after Director William Joern said that the staff level of three would not permit the organization to do all the things envisioned in the work program which was designed around a staff of four.

POSTCARD

On a rainy day I splashed down to North Beach in San Francisco where wine and people have a touch of Mediterranean sun.

The pasta is rich. The vino is red. The waiters are generally Italian. Frank was an escaped prisoner of war. Picked up in North Africa. Transferred to a work detail at the Presidio.

One day he just walked off. Came down to Broadway. Shed the POW suit and signed on as a waiter. Married a nice North Beach girl and started raising a family. North Beach is that kind of place.

It was pouring buckets when I turned into Vanessa's — the salads come with the best wine vinegar in the world.

There's a warm bar manned by lawyers and newspaper types. Wine importers and night club owners and occasional cops in plain clothes.

We used to eat here when we had Hall of Justice assignments.

There is nothing so good as a murder case. Judges and attorneys like long lunch hours. The trials were invariably dull but two-and-a-half hours for lunch! Mama mia! I ate a lot of spicy meatballs.

I spent five blessed weeks on the Buttermilk Killer. I got in three on the delicatessen owner who chopped off his wife's head.

"I tella her. Look in the barrel!" Shesha look down and I reach for the ax.

Back at the office, the city editor was sweating out the headline for the first edition.

I phoned and he said: "Whadya mean, he's adjourned court until 2:30? Do you realize we may miss the first?"

I said: "Jeez, I can't make him hold court earlier. He's over at Jack's leaning into the martini."

The editor said: "Tell him if he keeps this up, we won't support him in the next election."

We ate a lot of garlicky food. There was a theory if you ate an apple, it took the garlic off your breath. Since we all ate the same thing, we never knew.

We all lived in North Beach. On Telegraph Hill. Often got off work at 2:30 in the morning — when bars were closed — and had a last drink at Sally Stanford's elegant bordello on Pine Street.

Then we went down to New Joe's and ate hot French bread. Sliced with melted beef marrow. Splashed with lemon and ground pepper.

In Vanessa's there's a clatter of liar's dice. "Come up!" The satisfying smell of short ribs and ravioli.

I said: "Give me a glass of the house red."

In these more affluent days, I can afford name brands. But in North Beach — (tripping down memory lane — I am for the ungent house wines.

The judges ate at Jack's. The cops ate at Prosperity Corner — aptly named. The Corner was where payoffs were made in those easy-going days. (A hundred or more Madams were contributing like gaffed slot machines.)

We ate spaghetti laced with tomato at the Fior d'Italia. Sliced fresh mushrooms in oil and vinegar with Larry Salarp. The special at New Joe's.

We drank a lot of red wine.

In the courtroom, the bailiff rapped his gavel. "All rise."

The judge and attorneys sat down — the courtroom was sleepy with after lunch. We were all a little bombed to tell the truth.

I phoned in and said: "Dammit, I can't help what's going on here. Just a lot of objections."

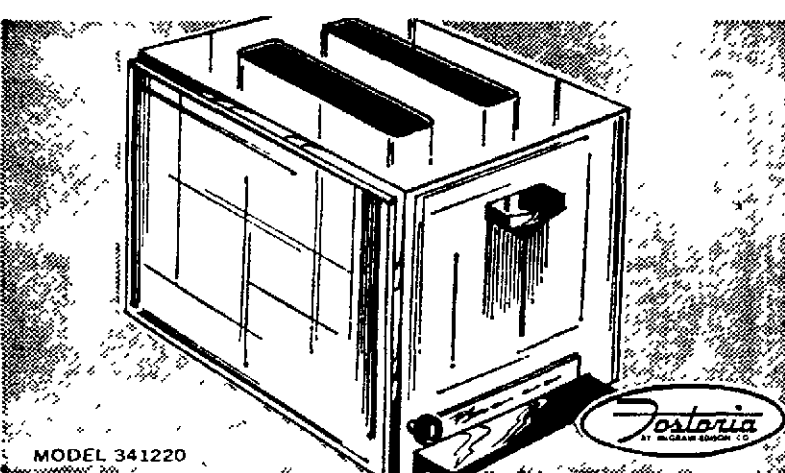

The city editor said: "For the love of Pete, why did I get into this business. Well, give rewrite five hundred on what the murdering bastard is thinking about."

Poll Indicates Most Americans Dismiss 'Watergate' And 'Secret GOP Fund' As 'Mostly Politics'

By LOUIS HARRIS

Neither the Watergate bugging affair nor Democratic charges that the Republicans have a $10 million secret fund from "big business" has made much dent in this election. A majority of 57% agree with the statement that the GOP campaign fund matter is "mostly politics" and an even higher 62% dismiss the Watergate episode on the same ground.

The Watergate episode, in which individuals employed by the Republican campaign committee were caught wiretapping Democratic headquarters in Washington, has been a major plank in Senator McGovern's contention that "corruption has been rife in the Nixon Administration." In-depth questioning on the subject among 1,585 likely voters earlier this month yielded this set of public perceptions of the Watergate issue:

A substantial 76% of the voters reported they had followed the events in the Watergate bugging case. By 70-13%, a big majority perceived the wiretapping of Democratic headquarters as a case of "political spying." By an even more lopsided 84-9%, voters also agreed with the statement that it is a "basic violation of civil liberties and individual freedom to put wiretaps in opposition party's headquarters."

—However, by 50-26%, the voters did not feel that "White House aides ordered the bugging." By an even more substantial 66-16%, nearly two in every three voters also did not believe that "President Nixon was involved or had knowledge of the Watergate affair."

—And by a substantial 62-26%, most voters said they were not worried about the civil liberties aspects of the Watergate bugging, since "it is mostly politics." And by 57-25%, another majority believe that such "political spying" is a "common occurrence" in politics, especially around campaign time.

Thus, it can be reported that while the American public is aware of the civil liberties implications in the Watergate affair, they are not so aroused that they are prepared to put the whole episode beyond the usual din of partisan politics in an election year. Nor do most people believe that President Nixon or his top White House aides were involved in either knowing about or giving the orders for the bugging.

As for the Democratic charge that the "Republicans are hiding $10 million in campaign contributions, mostly from big business, given in return for favors from the Nixon Administration," only 18% of the voters give credence to it. Another 9% of the voters go along with the Republican answer: that these gifts were given before the April cut-off date, only after which names of contributors had to be legally reported.

Louis Harris
'Mostly Politics'

A much larger 57% of the electorate agrees with the description of the controversy over campaign contributions as "mostly politics." When probed to find out why they feel this way, a substantial 34% of the voters answered that "these are the same kind of charges that come up in every election and it is just the usual mud-throwing that goes on." Another 12% believe the "Democrats take the same kind of money or would if they had the chance."

On the money question, 30% of the voters do feel the Republicans have an unfair advantage over the Democrats on funds available during the campaign. Only 4% feel the Democrats have a money advantage over the Republicans.

The largest single body of voter opinion, 47%, feel neither side has an "unfair money advantage over the other."

In analyzing these results, some might be tempted to conclude that most American voters have reached such a point of cynicism or indifference about the morality of the political system that no disclosure can any longer be shocking. Yet it is not that simple. Public reaction to disclosures concerning both the Watergate affair and business contributions to the GOP must be placed in two different contexts.

It is true that the period the country is living through has been marked by widespread alienation on the part of voters — directed against the leadership in politics and government, as well as the established institutions in science, education, and the military. Voters are already so dubious of the men running the establishment in America today that they are not surprised by charges such as those which have surfaced in the Watergate or Republican fund matters.

A second context, however, involves the realities of politics — particularly the matter of political tactics and timing.

The McGovern charges against the Nixon Administration concerning corruption and political spying were not launched until well into the political year. An old axiom of politics is that any development a year before the campaign begins is worth many times issues which are brought out in the heat of the campaign. The latter usually requires extraordinary voltage to produce shock waves.

Thus, voters are not only prepared to expect the worst these days, but they are also conditioned against political charges made by candidates during the heated, stretch-run of a campaign. Alienation cuts two ways.

Most Americans have felt for some time that the moral climate in the country was not very high; so confirming evidence in a campaign tends to be not surprising at all.

However, the issue of corruption in high places — when it became credible — has turned around elections before. That usually has required spectacular developments that could be verified outside the political arena.

Review Of Kotouc's Dismissal Set

Washington (AP) —The Army will review the dismissal of Capt. Eugene M. Kotouc and will permit him to remain at his post in Germany during the reassessment, congressmen were notified Wednesday.

Kotouc was charged but then acquitted of participation in the massacre of Vietnamese civilians at My Lai in 1968.

He was notified in late September at his Germany duty that he would be "selected out" of the service.

Kotouc, claiming that the Army was penalizing him for the My Lai incident when he had been acquitted, hired former Nebraska Gov. Bob Crosby as his lawyer and is fighting the dismissal.

His dismissal was to have been within 90 days from the late September notification.

Under Secretary of the Army Kenneth Belieu notified Sens. Roman Hruska and Carl Curtis and Rep. Charles Thone, all Nebraska Republicans, early Wednesday that the Army would review the entire record.

The congressmen had petitioned for the reassessment and asked that newly gathered reports from Kotouc's senior officers be included in the record.

"Whether he'll have a hearing and will appear before it hasn't been decided yet," said an aide to Thone.

Keep up with real depth reporting on government, state and community affairs in the Capital Section of the "Sunday Journal and Star."

McGovern Backers Hit Agriculture Secretary

By The Associated Press
A blast at Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz and announcement of the formation of a committee called Economists for McGovern-Shriver came Wednesday from the presidential campaign headquarters of Sen. George McGovern in Nebraska.

Former State Sen. Hans Jensen of Aurora attributed a "let them eat cake" statement to Butz and said it "does little to win the confidence of the farmer to the cause of his chief."

He attributed to Butz the statement that farmers "didn't lose 33 cents a bushel on wheat, they failed to make 33 cents a bushel," as a result of the United States-Soviet wheat deal.

"Butz told the farmer he could have benefitted from the rising market price if he had kept abreast of the indicators and held his wheat a while," Jensen said.

If the Department of Agriculture had released to the trade information about the deal, the market would have strengthened and farmers would have profited more by it, he said.

The new committee for economics was announced by Wallace C. Peterson and Campbell R. McConnell, both economists, who declared the presidential campaign "has not generated the kind of debate on economic issues to which the American people are entitled."

They declared that although McGovern has made several important economic proposals regarding economic policy, Nixon has not responded to them with the gravity they deserve.

Scholarships Won By Four UNL Students

Four University of Nebraska-Lincoln students of veterinary medicine have been awarded $500 scholarships from a fund provided by poet-singer Rod McKuen. The scholarships will be used during the current 1972-73 school year.

Those receiving the scholarships are David D. Fuchser, Pender, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Fuchser; Marshal G. Michael, Omaha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Michael; Allen R. Cahill, Ord, son of Mrs. Rose Cahill; and Charles Mahrt, Kearney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Mahrt.

McKuen made the initial contribution for the scholarships in support of studies in pre-veterinary medicine as part of his personal program to encourage young people to enter the field of veterinary medicine.

Technical Ag School Enrolls 239 Students

Curtis — The University of Nebraska School of Technical Agriculture at Curtis has opened its doors for an eighth year with an enrollment of 239 students. Ninety-three per cent of these students are Nebraska residents.

The 21-month vocational school was established by the Nebraska Legislature to train rural and city youth for farm and off-farm agriculturally-oriented occupations. The school began operations in the fall of 1965 with 31 students in two departments. Since then the technical school has graduated 419 students.

According to school records, 98 of the students employed find jobs in the field in which they were trained.

Lancaster Co. To Participate In Watch Program

Lancaster County has been selected as one of 1,600 counties in the nation to participate in the Neighborhood Watch Program.

Lancaster County Sheriff Merle Karnopp said the pilot project to cut down on the number of burglaries and larcenies is being sponsored by the National Sheriff's Association and is made possible by a federal grant.

He said Lancaster County is the first in Nebraska to be selected for the program.

Schmit Says Schools Should Use U.S. Meat

Bellwood (P) — State Sen. Loran Schmit of David City called Wednesday for an end to the practice of using imported meat in the school lunch program in Nebraska.

He said a survey of some of the schools in his district revealed that one school has used meat imported from Argentina and Paraguay.

"I know that school boards are sincere in trying to hold down costs, but I do not think we are going to get rich on the money saved by feeding our children imported meat," he said. "If we do not use the product in our homes, then we should not force it on our children."

"In addition, many Nebraska businesses have been forced to spend thousands of dollars to comply with the provisions of the Federal Wholesome Meat Act," Schmit said. "I think it is unfair to expect these same businessmen, along with the livestock feeders, to compete with meat products that are slaughtered and processed under conditions over which we have very little control."

Eagle — This Cass County town's "last picture show" went out of business years ago as Midwestern small towns slid into a long period of declining fortune.

Now Eagle is enjoying a change of fortune and a resurgence of community pride, and the empty Main Street lot where the movie theater once stood is being groomed as a senior citizen "loafers' park."

"This town has a lot of senior citizens, more than most people think," said Mrs. Warren Hagel-Pitt, who headed the town's first entry ever in the Nebraska Community Improvement Program (NCIP) competition this year.

"And they said there was no place up town to go and sit. If you've been to Eagle, you know we've got only one block up town, and there really isn't any place like that."

"So we thought we'd just clean up this lot and put in some benches."

Ernest Meyer, a resident of Eagle for just a year, was up town watering the park's new grass with Otto A. F. May and Charles Scattergood. The three men have done the lion's share of work in tending the grass now sprouting in the little pocket park, although they would accept little credit.

"It was started the first part of September," Meyer said. "There were just weeds in it then."

"They're going to put a loafers' bench in, I guess," said Scattergood.

"For old geezers like us," May added with a grin.

The park, Scattergood said, was leveled with seven loads of dirt from Eagle Lakes, one of two substantial new housing developments in town. The other, Eagle Heights just west of town, has already added 28 new homes to a previously tight housing market and helped boost Eagle's population to 625—an incredible jump of nearly 200 in a year.

Besides the bench, the Loafers Park will sport a community bulletin board to be built by Gary Brown and flowers contributed and planted by various people around town.

"All the labor and grass and dirt and everything has been donated by private citizens," Mrs. Hagel-Pitt said. "I think we've spent maybe $11."

The Loafers Park is one of several projects included in Eagle's NCIP scrapbook designed with the older folks in mind. A second is a newly-instituted "Over-50 Night," a social evening of games, cards and refreshments. Another is a weekly senior-citizen shopping trip to Gateway in Lincoln, arranged by the elderly themselves. Three drivers, including Scattergood, take turns driving the group to Lincoln.

"We're also trying to start an under-50 group," said Mrs. Hagel-Pitt, "and the four NCIP Teens got some help and painted the other city park red, white and blue. And the Girl Scouts had a paper drive."

Some 78 unsightly tree stumps were removed, she added, and although NCIP stresses removal of auto bodies, "we don't have an abandoned car problem."

Next year, the NCIP chairman said, Eagle may be able to claim another new park, a new restaurant and body shop in its competition scrapbook. The city is eyeing an area roughly equivalent to two city blocks near Eagle Heights, set aside by the developer.

"It's a low area, with trees," said Mrs. Verna Hagel, a member of the Eagle Planning Commission. "If we can get it fixed up and cleaned, it'll make an ideal park."

Of Mrs. Hagel-Pitt, the planning commissioner said, "She's good at getting people to do things, but she doesn't ask anybody to do anything that she won't do. She gets out there herself and works."

The scrapbook Mrs. Hagel-Pitt prepared was studied by NCIP judges Wednesday, along with those of 45 other Class II towns (301-800 population) which entered community awards competition this year. Judges will spend the next two days visiting six finalists in the population class, and the winner will be announced at the NCIP awards banquet in Lincoln Oct. 27.

Gail Jean Cox Selected As Poster Child

Gail Jean is one of eight children enrolled in the Stepping Stone School in Dakota City, a program for trainable retarded children operated by Educational Service Unit I. She was one of the school's first students almost two years ago.

Factory Hinges On Results Of Survey

Southeast Nebraska Bureau Fairbury — Officials of a 350-employee garment plant which has a tentative plan to locate here are reportedly "quite gratified" with the first two days of a three-day community labor survey.

Well over 1,000 persons signed up Wednesday following a first-day registration of 721. Local promoters hope to reach a goal of at least 3,000 by the end of registration Thursday night.

The Kellwood Company, a St. Louis firm which operates 57 plants throughout the nation, has stressed that its final decision hinges upon the results of the survey.

Mrs. Joyce Robinson, Fairbury Chamber of Commerce manager, said there appears to be a need for applications from neighboring communities. All area individuals of age 18 and up are urged to register, regardless of their immediate intent on employment status.

"This is an unusual labor survey and in fact is more of a pre-registration sampling," said the manager. "What Kellwood has asked for is a strong show of community support, so we're trying to enlist everyone possible whether or not they're actually interested in working."

A volunteer force of 75 women is handling signups at the Fairgrounds 4-H building from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Prospective employees from a 40-mile radius were among the signers.

Larry Wylie, personnel manager for Kellwood's outerwear division, is supervising the survey. The Fairbury plant will produce men's clothing.

The Fairbury Industrial Development Corporation recently announced that it will build a $750,000 plant for the firm if an adequate labor force is demonstrated. Production is tentatively scheduled to begin next May, although a pilot operation of about 75 employees may start sooner.

State Pardon Board Action Commutes Seven Life Terms

The State Pardon Board Wednesday commuted the life sentence of Derold Keys in connection with the murder of a Lincoln student nurse to 20-35 years imprisonment. The commutation means that Keys will be eligible for parole after March 1, 1973.

Keys, originally from Halsey, began serving a life sentence in 1962 after being convicted of the shooting death of Miss Kathy Ristine, a 20-year-old student nurse at Lincoln General Hospital.

The unusual day-long session in the Governor's hearing room was attended by an overflow crowd of more than 40 persons, many of whom testified. When the three-man board consisting of the governor, the attorney general and the secretary of state adjourned, it had commuted the life sentences of six men convicted of second degree murder and one man convicted of first degree murder to determinate sentences. The board also granted full pardons to four men who have served their terms.

It was the largest number of commutations granted by the Pardon Board since the 1969 Legislature separated the pardon and parole functions. None of the requests for commutations and pardons which were advanced by the Pardon Board were turned down.

The Commutations of the life sentences, in the words of State Pardon Board Chairman

John Greenholtz, offer those particular convicts "a ray of hope" that parole is possible sometime in the future at the discretion of the Parole Board.

Another convict whose life sentence was commuted to 33-50 years was Daniel R. Smith of Hastings who was convicted in 1955 of first degree murder for the beating death of 5-year-old Patrick Walsh. Smith would thus be eligible for parole in March of 1973.

Earlier appeals for Smith's commutation in 1970 and 1971 were deferred by the Parole Board. Greenholtz told the Pardon Board that Smith has "proved himself" and has been "very cooperative." Two former parole board members, Wallace Rudolph and Larry Meyers, also appeared to favor the commutation of Smith's sentence.

Noting that Smith has served 18 years, Rudolph said, "when a prisoner has lived up to all expectations, there must be a time when it must be rewarded."

Meyers said of the roughly 1,000 inmates he has met Smith is "head and shoulders above the others;" he added that Smith was "ready for release many years ago."

Present to oppose commutation of Smith's sentence were the victim's brother and mother, Mike Walsh and a tearful Mrs. Barbara Walsh.

Mike Walsh said a commutation of sentence and the resulting possibility of parole would endanger Mrs. Walsh's life.

"If you reduce his sentence, then you have sentenced my mother to a lifetime of fear," he said.

Mrs. Walsh's testimony before the board was in a low tone of voice and could not be overheard by those present.

Greenholtz assured Mrs. Walsh if Smith's sentence was commuted and he eventually is paroled that one of the conditions of parole would be that he could not return to the Hastings area. Smith's family members testified that if Smith ever were paroled he would live with his wife and son in Missouri.

Other sentences which were commuted Wednesday were:

—Emerson Broadus, 62, of Omaha, convicted by a Douglas County Court of second degree murder in the death of Robert Welch. His sentence was commuted to 18-25 years making him eligible for parole in February of 1973.

—Sterling Gatewood, 39, of Omaha, convicted of the fatal shooting of his wife in 1952. His sentence was commuted to 18-25 years making him eligible for parole in May of 1973.

—James K. Newman, 54, of Stuart, convicted of the fatal shooting of Stuart's daughter, Doris, in 1954. His term was commuted to 20-35 years.

—Dennis O'Kelly, 31, of Lincoln, convicted in the slaying of his girl friend, Miss Barbara Eastman in 1961. His sentence was commuted to 18-25 years, he will be eligible for parole in July of 1973.

—Joseph Martinez, 42, of North Platte, convicted of the second degree murder of his wife in 1965. His term was commuted to 18-25 years. He will be eligible for parole in August of 1973.

Those cases which were granted a full pardon are:

—Joseph Reynolds of Valentine, 57, who had four prior convictions in Nebraska (including first degree murder) and one conviction in Colorado.

—Gary Volmer, 27, of Lexington, who has served a 1-2 year sentence for breaking and entering in 1963.

—John McCarty, 48, of Omaha, who was convicted of assault with intent to do great bodily harm in 1961.

—John A. Hall, 39, Genoa, who was convicted of breaking and entering in 1954. He served a 1-3 year term.

NBC To Construct New Headquarters

Plans to construct a new multi-million dollar bank and office building in downtown Lincoln were announced Wednesday by Glenn Yaussi, president of NBC Co., a bank holding company whose principal asset is the National Bank of Commerce (NBC) in Lincoln.

Building plans call for 15 to 20 stories and about 200,000 square feet of space on NBC's present site, 13th and O, and 100 feet on the northeast corner of 13th and P Streets.

Architects for the new building will be I. M. Pei and Partners, New York City, and Davis-Fenton-Stange-Darling of Lincoln, who Yaussi said would work "50-50" on the arrangement.

Yaussi said numerous plans for the structure have been studied but that "the final design will be the responsibility of Mr. Pei and Mr. Davis's firms." Ellery Davis of Lincoln was also present for the announcement.

During construction, estimated to take two to two-and-a-half years, NBC will relocate in temporary quarters downtown, location of which Yaussi said he was not yet ready to disclose.

Demolition will begin in March or April, 1973, of the existing bank and the corner now occupied by the Varsity Theatre, Kep Hardin's Sport Shop, El Toro Barber Shop, Christian Science Reading Room and temporary offices of Nixon for President. NBC already occupies the second floor of that property.

NBC will make 85,000 square feet in the new building available to tenants, and will still almost double its existing space of 60,000 square feet. It was a necessary move, Yaussi said, because "We have run out of space," pointing out computer operations required a move or expansion.

It will be a month before the architects decide on the height and configuration of the building, Pei said, but they will consider two goals: "To improve efficiency of operation and to present some kind of image to the city."

Pei said he is "concerned about what this building will do to the city; it should make a contribution to Lincoln."

Pei remarked in an interview that his interest "is more than in just a building." He is considering "the official impact it will have on the community, which demonstrates the correct kind of responsibility that business leaders should take," he said.

James Freed, partner in the Pei firm, said "It's the right site, the right time, and will anchor downtown." He said the Pei architects are also community planners and considered the entire downtown area in their plans.

"The civic responsibility the bank is exhibiting will insure the healthy growth of the downtown area," Freed said, observing that Lincoln is one of the few cities in the Midwest not losing its downtown.

The Pei firm is noted for international work in designing urban housing, commercial sites and institutional structures. It has won numerous international architectural awards.

Among its current projects are the JFK Library in Cambridge, Mass., the East Building of the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., the John Hancock Tower in Boston, and the Robert Kennedy gravesite in Washington.

Catholic Lay Persons Want Voice In Educational System Decisions

Omaha (AP) — Catholic lay persons will lose their enthusiasm for the Catholic educational system unless they are given more decision making power in it, a woman educator said in Omaha Wednesday.

Dr. Mary-Angele Harper of Washington, D.C., said this power should include involvement by Catholic school board members in the "hiring and firing" of the chief administrator of education in a diocese.

She spoke at a meeting of the Chief Administrators of Catholic Education. The group concluded its national convention in Omaha Wednesday.

Dr. Harper is president of the National Association of Boards of Education-National Catholic Educational Association.

She praised the guidelines for boards of education formulated in the past seven years by Catholic school officials but questioned whether any boards have realized the ideals spelled out in the guidelines.

"For example," she said, "you have insisted throughout the years that boards should have the authority to formulate policy, subject only to an extremely rare episcopal or pastoral veto. You have clearly noted the need for boards to be representative of the entire community and to effect this by using popular election procedures, and also by devising mechanisms for community input.

Dr. Harper said she can not produce a real profile of today's Catholic boards of education.

"I suspect," she said, "that while there are isolated instances of successful melding of the ideal and the real more often than not our boards have a tendency to go toward this sort of maturity."

Disagreements Flare Over Bank Stabilization Project

Bismarck, N.D. (AP) — Disagreements flared over a bank stabilization issue discussed during the opening business session of the Missouri Basin Commission Wednesday.

The commission meeting runs through Thursday.

Nebraska representative Thomas Eason, moved that the 10 state commission support a $5 million river bank stabilization project between Yankton, S.D., and Ponca, Neb.

Congress has authorized but has not appropriated funds for the project which Eason called a long-standing need in the region.

Milo Housveen, North Dakota's representative on the commission, moved that the commission also support bank stabilization between the Garrison Dam and the Oahe Reservoir.

The proposals by Eason and Housveen were questioned by Missouri representative Clifford Summers, who wondered if the projects shouldn't be part of a more comprehensive package.

Also disagreeing about the wisdom of endorsing specific projects was Jerry Stove, regional administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency. He called the proposals by Housveen and Eason out of order.

Then Housveen remarked, "If we're unable to take this action, then we fail to be functional and revert to the old Missouri Basin Interagency policy of just being social."

Joe Grimes, commission vice chairman and South Dakota's representative, said, "We should endorse the projects as part of long range accomplishment in the Missouri Basin."

He questioned that the proposals actually interfered with basin planning objectives "if we can't get a bridge between planning and implementation we might just as well fold our cards."

The disagreement prompted John Neuberger, commission chairman to call for further discussion later on what direction the commission should take—whether its role should be mainly planning or planning plus endorsement for specific projects.

Three Women Are Arrested In Alleged Shoplifting Spree

Council Bluffs, Iowa (AP) — Two St. Louis women were jailed in Council Bluffs in lieu of $6,000 bonds Wednesday and a third was held in Omaha as the result of an alleged shoplifting spree, ending in a chase and a traffic accident.

Council Bluffs police identified the pair held here as Nancy Carol (Foggie) Herron and Barbara Jean Smith, both 24. The woman held in Omaha was identified as Phyllis Tate, 22.

The incident began when motorcycle officer Carl Bradenburg was flagged down by J. C. Penney Assistant Store Manager James Turnbull, who described the suspected shoplifters and their car.

Bradenburg spotted the car and attempted to stop it but the car continued until it was in a collision with another vehicle.

Bradenburg said the Smith woman ran from the car but was apprehended by John Ebert city sewer department superintendent who had followed Bradenburg to give aid.

About $990 worth of clothing was taken from the car and was subsequently identified as having come from four Council Bluffs retail establishments.

Police said investigations led to the issuance of a warrant for the Tate woman in Omaha. Omaha police said a quantity of clothing from Council Bluffs stores was found in her motel room. She was held on $5,000 bond.

Sen. Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove, chairman of the health study committee, said the hearing will be held in the State Capitol Building beginning at 1 p.m.

A supporter's photograph of Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., was autographed Wednesday by Tricia Nixon Cox, daughter of President Nixon, in Columbia, S.C. Thurmond, 69, whose wife Nancy, 26, gave birth to an 8-pound, 3-ounce boy, had been scheduled to introduce Mrs. Cox at the South Carolina State Fair where she put in a campaign appearance for her father. "I'm just sitting on top of the world," exclaimed Thurmond after the birth. Mrs. Thurmond a former "Miss South Carolina" beauty queen, and the baby were reported "doing fine."

State's Economy Slipped Slightly From June To July, Report Notes

After experiencing a sharp increase in business activity in June, the Nebraska economy slipped slightly in July, according to "Business in Nebraska," the monthly publication of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Most of the decline from June to July occurred in the agriculture and distributive and services sectors of the economy and can be attributed to declines in cash receipts from farm marketings and retail sales.

These two indicators often move somewhat erratically from month to month. It is not appropriate, therefore, to attribute a great deal of significance to the small June-July drop in the dollar volume index, according to the publication's "Review and Outlook" column.

The agriculture and distributive and services drops, however, were large enough to offset a substantial June to July gain in construction dollar volume. Construction continues to be the strongest growth sector for the state and had reached a level 21% above the 1967 average by July.

Although most sectors of the Nebraska economy were stable or declined from June to July, activity in July 1972 was well above July 1971 levels. The over-all dollar volume index was up 8.6%.

The July to July growth of physical volume (2.4%) was substantially below the dollar volume.

Consumer prices were up 3% over July 1971, and wholesale prices were 4.5% higher.

Here is a summary of

Nebraska's net taxable retail sales by regions (unadjusted for price changes):

After lunch in university residence halls, the visiting high school seniors will tour the campus.

The Nebraska Human Resources Research Foundation and the Nebraska Builders College Day Committee will coordinate the activities of university students as leaders and hosts during the day.

A similar Senior Information Day will be held Nov. 11 for Lincoln area high school seniors.

This Week's Health Tip

Recent flooding in many areas of the United States, as well as any number of man-made disasters, have brought home the need for up-to-date emergency services in all communities.

An up-to-date, well equipped medical emergency service has a single item which is seconded in importance only by good professional medical personnel to provide aid to suffering victims. That is blood, the Nebraska Medical Association reports.

An adequate supply of blood is needed not only for emergency use, but for daily use in surgery, and for the care of persons with certain common physical ailments. Most hospitals have blood banks for use in these daily needs.

In order for hospitals to maintain that blood bank, people must be willing to donate their blood. The Nebraska Medical Association urges persons between the ages of 21 and 60 to give blood, provided they're healthy and are not suffering from any blood diseases. By making such blood donations, persons can assure themselves as well as others of blood in case of need.

Country Club Terrace Eastborough Park Manor Trendwood

in suburban areas

School activities, as well as club functions, are well under way, but in spite of their busy schedules, our suburban residents still are finding time to entertain guests, host family dinners and participate in family birthday celebrations — not to mention spending time in preparation for the upcoming holiday season.

For example, Mr. and Mrs. Michael D. Hitch of Country Club Terrace recently enjoyed entertaining as houseguests Mrs. Hitch's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt Wewee of Salt Lake City, Utah. Mr. and Mrs. Wewee, of course, were very anxious to visit all of the relatives in the area, but the main attraction drawing them to Lincoln on Saturday, Oct. 7, was Mr. and Mrs. Hitch's daughter and the Wewee's granddaughter, Jennifer.

Little Miss Jennifer, who is four months old, was born on June 20, and, although Mrs. Wewee was able to become acquainted with the young lady during her visit earlier in the summer, Mr. Wewee had never seen his new granddaughter.

We all know that babies tend to sleep most of the time, but Mr. and Mrs. Wewee found that while Jennifer was sleeping it was a most opportune time to enjoy their other two granddaughters, Dyan and Debra Hitch.

On Sunday, Oct. 8, the Hitch family and Mr. and Mrs. Wewee were guests at a dinner for which Mr. and Mrs. Wewee's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Wewee and their son, David, were hosts and hostess. Another son of the Utah couple, David Wewee, also attended the dinner.

The University of Nebraska-Missouri football game was an incentive for the trip to Lincoln taken last weekend by Dr. and Mrs. Merlin Broers and their daughter, Barbara of Schleswig, Iowa, but not the only one. It also gave them the opportunity to visit Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Lohrborg and their family in Eastborough.

The Iowa threesome arrived on Saturday morning, Oct. 14, attended the game on Saturday afternoon, and still had plenty of time to visit with the Lohrborgs before their departure on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 15.

We also have news from Eastborough which involves Mr. and Mrs. Norris B. Weier. They returned on Tuesday, Oct. 10, after a week-long vacation in Las Vegas, Nev.

While there the travelers enjoyed seeing Fay McKay and the Paris Review, Folies Bergere with Audrey Arno, and well-known U.S. female vocalist, Bobbi Gentry.

October is one of the most colorful months of the year, and, therefore, is the perfect time for journeys through the countryside, whether the trips are simply for an afternoon or for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dennis, who recently returned to their Park Manor home from a week-long vacation in New Mexico, chose to drive the family car on their brief vacation, in order to take in all of the beautiful mountain scenery.

Dr. and Mrs. Edward Rack of Trendwood entertained some very special houseguests in the not-too-distant past.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Al Blocky of Omaha, who chose to spend a relaxing weekend in Lincoln's suburban areas.

During their stay, Mr. and Mrs. Blocky were complimented at an hors d'oeuvres party by their host and hostess. Other guests for the party, and the dinner which followed at the Hillcrest Country Club, were Mr. and Mrs. John Shere and Mr. and Mrs. William Mowrey.

Former Coed Has Church Wedding

On the evening of Friday, Oct. 5, the marriage of Miss Randi Sue Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Cook, to James Samuel Hamilton, son of Mrs. Homer Hamilton and the late Mr. Hamilton, took place at the Westminster Presbyterian Church. Dr. Robert E. Palmer solemnized the 7:30 o'clock ceremony.

Miss Laura Glade was the maid of honor and the bridesmaid was Miss Cheryl Pope.

Jerry Elfiring served as best man and the groomsmen and ushers included Jerry Kelly, John Hamilton, brother of the bridegroom and Casey J. Cook, brother of the bride.

For her wedding the bride chose an A-line silhouette gown, of peau de soie and alencon lace, fashioned in the Empire mode. The bodice, which featured long tapered sleeves and a duchess collar, was accented with lace appliques and seed pearls and the lace and pearl motif was repeated on the chapel length train. A high crown of crystal beads and seed pearls held in place her waist length veil of silk illusion, and she carried a bouquet of roses and gypsophila.

Mr. Hamilton and his bride now are residing in Lincoln.

Mrs. Hamilton attended the University of Nebraska and is now careering in the office of the Nebraska Department of Roads. Mr. Hamilton has completed his service with the U.S. Army which included a tour of duty in Vietnam, and he is currently associated with American Stores.

TALK

Yesterday we talked about a group of guests who were in Lincoln last weekend to celebrate the 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Wright—But we didn't tell the whole story.

The visitors, in case you may not remember were Mr. and Mrs. Wright's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gregg Wright and their son, Gregg, of Indianapolis, Ind.; and Mr. and Mrs. Terry Anderson and their daughter, Duky of Aurora, Ill.

While in Lincoln Mr. and Mrs. Gregg Wright and their son, and Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and their daughter also were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Wright's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Walt Sauter and their daughter, Germaine.

In addition to the family anniversary festivities, the visitors managed to find their way to the NU stadium for the Nebraska-Missouri game.

The anniversary celebration, we might add, was not on the official date. The wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Wright took place in Omaha on Oct. 12, 1932.

Now it is time to introduce Miss Kristin Ann Weyers, a young lady who first saw the world on Monday, Oct. 17. The baby is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Weyers of Phoenix, Ariz., and her devoted admirers include her sister, Tracy Lynn, and some doting grandparents—Mr. and Mrs. George Weyers of Lincoln, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bowley of Perry, Iowa.

The wedding of Miss Jeanne Lorraine Risse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Risse of Deadwood, S.D., and Glenn U. Ray Jr. of Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ray of Omaha, took place on Sunday, Oct. 1, at the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Spearfish, S.D.

Mrs. Jerald Johannes of San Antonio, Tex., was her sister's matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Kathy Gardner of Cozad, and Miss Pam Nelson of Ong.

John Gorton was best man and groomsmen and ushers were Steve Bowen of Alliance, Duane Fausset and Duane Johnson, both of Omaha, and Earl Huckins.

The bride chose an A-line silhouette gown for her wedding. Assistants Will Meet

Shower Is Held

Traditionally, the future mother is the honoree at baby showers. However, the tables were turned on an expectant father at a baby shower which was held on Tuesday evening, Oct. 17.

Father-to-be Tom Miller, who is the assistant manager of Herberger's Fabric Store, was the guest of honor at a shower for which the store's employees were hosts and hostesses. Of course, Mrs. Miller was on hand to aid the expectant father in opening the gifts.

division, but it was this very possibility that he should have protected against by ruffing the third heart low.

Opening lead—five of hearts.

The expression "safety play" is an ambiguous term that means different things to different players. Declarer made a play in this hand that he thought was a safety play, but actually it would have been more correct to characterize it as an "un-safety play."

West led a heart, East winning the first trick with the jack and continuing with the A-K. Declarer, having noted West's lead of the five followed by the four, realized that West had no more hearts and accordingly ruffed the third one with the jack to prevent an overruff.

This precaution proved to be highly expensive because, when South now led the ace of spades, East showed out and it was all over but the shouting. South had no way to avoid losing two trump tricks and went down one.

Declarer should have trumped the third heart with the seven! He should not have concerned himself as much as he did with the danger of an overruff by West, for if that occurred which seemed highly likely—it would signal the end of the line for the defense. He would still have the A-K-Q-J of trumps left, in such case, to draw the outstanding four trumps.

It is true that declarer made a safety play of sorts to avoid the loss of a trump trick. He would have gained a trick—an unimportant 30-point trick—had the spades been divided 3-2. His play would surely have been right had he needed the rest of the tricks to make the contract.

South's main concern should have been to make four spades—making five was unimportant—and he should have geared his play to that goal. He was indeed unlucky to run into a 5-0 trump

Peggy Hamersky Honored At Shower

Bridal showers serve a variety of purposes. Socially speaking these courtesies not only offer the bride-elect a few hours of relaxation here and there but they also are perfect excuses for a group of friends to get together, as well as providing a means of introducing the bride-elects relatives to the relatives of the bridegroom-to-be

The latter was the case when Mrs. Albert Hamersky entertained in honor of her niece, Miss Peggy Hamersky, when she was hostess at a miscellaneous shower on Monday evening, Oct. 16

Assisting hostesses for the courtesy held at which was the home of Mrs. Hamersky were two other aunts of the bride-elect — Mrs. Joe Hamersky and Miss Ted Milburn Miss Hamersky, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Alfons Hamersky, has chosen, Friday, Nov. 24, as the date of her marriage to Dennis Berry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Berry

Harvard Lampoon Lampoons

Harvard Lampoon announced the publication of a parody of Cosmopolitan magazine, the latest in its 80-year history of literary mayhem. The Cosmo parody includes a color centerfold showing Henry Kissinger reclining on a panda rug as a Burt Reynolds style nude. The cover is resplendent with a typical Cosmo girl, except that she's cross-eyed.

The magazine, managed businesswise by Twenty First Century Communications, Inc., is due on newsstands on or about October 20. Other celebrities lampooned in the parody include Jackie Onassis and Cosmopolitan editor Helen Gurley Brown. Ms. Brown cooperated with the Harvard Lampoon staff in the preparation of the issue, but wasn't spared a taste of Lampoon humor.

A first for the century-old Harvard publication is the accession to the editorial staff of a woman, Patricia A. Marx, 19, of Philadelphia.

Editorially the Harvard Lampoon is entirely a student endeavor, receiving no aid or control from Harvard, financially or in any other way. It is housed in an elegant, ridiculous castle designed by Edmund March Wheelwright and built in 1909.

In that year William Randolph Hearst was business manager of the magazine and he made so much money he decided to build the castle with the profits. With 20 rooms, it is known as the only building in America erected as a "prank."

BOOKS—"Mary Todd Lincoln: Her Life And Letters"

BY CYNTHIA JOHNSON

History has been something less than kind to Mary Todd Lincoln, wife of the 16th president of the United States. In contrast to the saintly legend left by her martyred husband, Mary Lincoln is usually remembered as a vain and improvident woman, whose eccentricities, financial and otherwise, bordered on insanity.

However, according to Justin G. Turner and Linda Levitt Turner, co-editors of a recently published book entitled "Mary Todd Lincoln: Her Life and Letters" (Alfred A. Knopf), the traditional conception of Mary Lincoln is exaggerated and, in consequence, unfair. They argue that she was the victim of the rantings of a "bad press," malicious and unfounded gossip, and the chicanery of intimate associates.

In an effort to change — or perhaps it would be more accurate to say "modify" — the prevailing image of Mary Lincoln, Justin Turner, a noted Lincoln scholar, and his daughter-in-law, Linda Levitt Turner, have compiled, in chronological order, all of the available correspondence written by their subject. More than one-half of the 609 letters contained in the lengthy volume have never before been published.

The Turners have divided their book into five sections which span the 64 years of Mary Todd Lincoln's life. The first section, "The Very Creature of Excitement" deals with their subject's childhood and early adulthood, including her courtship by Abraham Lincoln. From this emerges a picture of a young, high-spirited and intelligent woman who delighted in participating in intellectual and political discussions at a time when most women's interests did not extend beyond the home.

The early years of the Lincolns' marriage — enhanced by Abraham's election to the U.S. House of Representatives, and marred by the death, in 1850, of their son, Edward — are also chronicled in this first section.

"Mrs. President Lincoln" covers the years from 1861 to 1865 — the years of greatest triumph, and tragedy, for Mrs. Lincoln. Unaccepted by Washington society, and ever protective of her husband's interests, Mrs. Lincoln reacted to her new position by running up huge debts for clothing, jewelry and furnishings; and by sniping at cabinet members and other Presidential appointees who did not meet with her approval.

Washington was hard on Mary Lincoln, who was eternally the target of gossipers and the "vampyre press" — the result primarily of her wild spending sprees. The tragic climax of these years — the deaths of yet another son and then her husband — served to deepen the psychological disorientation she had experienced upon the death of her first son.

The succeeding three sections portray the widowed Mary Todd Lincoln, overcome with grief and plagued by debts, trying first to secure financial aid from old and unreliable "friends," and finally attempting to wrest a pension from an unwilling Congress.

The compilation of these letters is a noteworthy achievement that will be welcomed by historian and layman alike. In the book, Mary Lincoln speaks for herself, and as eccentric as she may have been, she probably did not deserve the reputation she acquired at the hands of her detractors.

Gernreich Has Fashion Ideas

New York (AP) — Tiered dresses and tent shapes could point the way to an "away from the body" spring for fashions.

Ruda Gernreich showed the tent and Pierre Cardin-New York brought out the tiers.

The only hint of a figure underneath the Cardin layers was that certain tiers stood out further than others. There's the risk of getting wrinkled tiers—very declassé—if a woman sits too long. So, keep dancing.

"The day clothes are getting shifter," said Gernreich at his collection show for Harmon Knitwear, on Tuesday.

Sure enough, his once gasp-inspiring knits have softened up. The tent dresses, which got hearty applause, are long for evening.

I just hope those women in Los Angeles will stop wearing evening dresses in the day time," said Gernreich, verbally lashing at the noon-time ankle-length look.

"The focus is on the fabric," said Gernreich, who continues his bold geometric prints and offers the simplest shorts, midriff tops, skirts and his tents.

His details are worth note. The circle pin of the 1950s is back, in clusters.

Gernreich matches two-piece bikinis with his outfits.

"I believe in the bikini bottom, and that's it," he said. He seemed to be reminding people that the new outbreak of toplessness is not a new idea to him.

"The shapes are totally understated. For instance if you have a cardigan, it doesn't have a pocket. Once you impose a design ideal it becomes too self-conscious," he said.

His only nod to self-consciousness was a very funny shirt with the look of a cardigan tied over the shoulders. It was a tongue-in-cheek version of that popular toss-away chic, ultra-casual look, promulgated particularly by designer Halston.

Speaking of pockets, the Cardin collection, includes dresses with pockets directly beneath the bosom. The day dresses, important in this collection, are neat and trim, in red, white and pastels.

The tiered look is shown horizontal, tri-level, diagonal, or knife-pleated. These shapes are compared to minarets or waterfalls.

The short-rolled sleeve is continued from last season on dresses and coats. It still looks fresh. And there's a pleasant series of brushed denim pants suits and coats.

Abby: honesty has many, many facets

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The woman who wondered whether she was "Honest or Stupid" for returning that which she had found, was obviously disgruntled because no rewards were offered.

If one expects to be rewarded for honesty, it means that honesty today is a rarity, and I don't believe it.

A number of years ago I was stranded in Durham, N.C., after having lost my wallet. A Negro bellhop paid my hotel bill plus breakfast, and when I obtained cash by wire to send me on my way, I left a repayment plus a reward for his kindness to me.

When I returned home I found a letter with the reward money returned to me from the bellhop, stating there was no price on his friendship to man I was deeply moved by his action and shall never forget it. By the way, I am white, which made no difference to my black humanitarian friend.

PANORAMA CITY, CAL.
H.A.L.

DEAR ABBY: You gave a good answer to the woman who asked "Does it pay to be honest?" ("Honesty pays in the currency of honor and self respect.")

May I add a postscript? In determining what is right, I find it is helpful to consider the alternative.

With regard to the above-mentioned situation, the alternative would have been to keep the items she found instead of returning them to their rightful owners, rationalizing, "I probably won't even get a 'thank you.'"

This type of rationalization would surely create nagging guilt feelings which would be harder to live with than the resentment of unexpressed gratitude on the part of the owners.

Again and again I have found that considering the alternative has made the immediate unpleasantness much easier to bear, and helped in making the right decision.

Motor Vehicles Dept. Gets Health Advisory Unit

The establishment of a 13-member health advisory board to assist the State Motor Vehicles Department in identifying unqualified or incompetent drivers was announced by Director John Sullivan.

Sullivan said the board's duties will include assisting the department in health-related licensing standards and overhauling the medical evaluation system for persons believed to have mental or physical conditions that might impair driving.

"As it is now, the law says if our examiner's have a question about an individual's vision or judgment, the individual can go to a medical doctor for an opinion," Sullivan said.

"It puts a terrible burden on any hometown doctor who's dealt with the individual for a long period of time to determine their privilege to drive after so many years," he said.

The motor vehicles director said the assurance of being able to obtain another opinion "will give the director and the department some latitude in determining who will be on the road."

The group's second major duty, he said, will be to help review present licensing standards.

"We'll be setting up meetings with them to review the standards, both visually and medically, that we adhere to now and see if they're reasonable," he said.

He gave as an example the present requirement that epileptics must have been free of attacks for a one-year period before obtaining a license.

Dr. Ken Kimball of Kearney, Chairman of the Nebraska Medical Association's Traffic Safety Committee, and Dr. Duane E. Polzien of Lincoln, a member of the Nebraska Optometric Association, were instrumental in setting up the board, Sullivan said.

The 13 board members are: Vernon C. Rockey, O.D., Crawford; Larry Moore, O.D., Lexington; Steven Jacobsen, O.D., Fremont; Vernon Hyble, O.D., Norfolk; Duane E. Polzien, O.D., Lincoln; P. Bryant Olsson, M.D., Lexington; Roy F. Stanton, M.D., Lincoln; C. Paulson, M.D., Lincoln; V. Franklin Colby, M.D., Fremont; Ronald F. Prince, M.D., Minden; Richard B. Sveha, M.D., Omaha; Robert B. Muffly, M.D., Omaha; and Guy M. Malsen, M.D., Lincoln.

THE PADDOCK

By Mark Gordon
Star Sports Writer

Tough Not To Play

Kansas City, Mo. — Under glaring spotlights in an Arrowhead Stadium interview room, Kansas City Chiefs coach Hank Stram faced a swarm of area and Cincinnati reporters.

In another area, quarterback Len Dawson was greeted by local reporters. In still another section of the Chiefs' plush red-carpeted locker room, Robert West, who tried for a last-second tying touchdown pass catch, was interviewed by newsmen.

But next to West's locker, Jeff Kinney, the talk of the collegiate football world after scoring four touchdowns for Nebraska against Oklahoma last season, dressed quietly. The Chiefs had just dropped a 23-16 decision to Cincinnati in a National Football League game.

Kinney, in his rookie professional football campaign, had seen action on the kickoff return team but the former Husker workhorse had not rushed against the Bengals.

"It's tough not to play — one week you start and the next week you don't," said the McCook native. "But you have to go when your number's called."

Kinney is one of only three rookies on the veteran-laden Chiefs (return specialist Larry Marshall and West are the others). With Stram's complicated offensive formations, a rookie running back can't be expected to immediately crack the starting lineup.

Team Unity

"My biggest thrill here is when we win—this team is so close together," he explained. "Sure, this is my first year here, but I still feel part of the team and that's one of the reasons we stick together."

"It's bad not getting to play—I don't care so much about the publicity like I got last year. I want to play, but if it's any consolation, I know that I'm part of the team."

Terming "getting ready to play" for the increased number of pro games (21 in pros to 11 in college), Kinney said the Cincinnati game demonstrated one fundamental difference between pro and collegiate football.

"I thought we had them on the ropes (when KC took a 10-3 lead) and we were going for an easy win. But all of a sudden, they came back. In pro ball, if you get somebody down, you better stay on top of them. You've got to deliver that knockout punch."

"In college ball, usually, I'm not saying always, if you start rolling and get another team down, you win. That doesn't always happen in pro ball."

Another difference is the almost fanatical red-clad fans at Lincoln's Memorial Stadium and the demanding hordes at Arrowhead. Both areas support their teams—79,068 watched the Chiefs Sunday while 76,511 viewed Nebraska squash Missouri, 62-0, on Saturday.

Different Crowds

"There's a lot of excitement in both places, but the Lincoln crowd tends to be more rah-rah," he said. "Here they expect you to do the job because you're a professional. I enjoy both kinds of crowds, but the one here can get on you more."

Although admitting difficulties in comparing a successful college coach like Nebraska's Bob Devaney and a prominent pro coach like Stram, Kinney said they possessed one similarity.

"They both try to play on your emotions to get you up for the games," he said. "They're similar in a lot of ways, but the two games are so different it's hard to compare college and pro coaches."

With Kansas City's proximity to Big Red Territory, Kinney says he still follows the Huskers. And Nebraska hasn't forgotten the former all-Big Eight standout, either.

"You bet I listen to the radio or watch the games on TV. I follow them real close—I probably always will," he said. "I get a lot of letters from people in Nebraska and they all wish me good luck."

Reporters were milling around Stram, Dawson and middle linebacker Willie Lanier. However, you couldn't help but surmise, that Jeff Kinney's days of stardom in the NFL aren't very far ahead.

HUSKERS ONLY UNIT RATED IN FOUR AREAS—

Nebraska Ranks In Top 10 In Defensive Categories

New York City — Nebraska's Black Shirts are the only defensive unit ranking in the top 10 in all four departments among major colleges this week, according to NCAA statistics.

The Huskers are No. 4 in total defense, ninth in both pass defense and rushing defense and fifth in scoring defense.

Nebraska, yielding 189.8 yards per game in total defense, trail only East Carolina (182.2), Notre Dame (182.3) and Columbia (188.3) in that department. Oklahoma is fifth, giving up 195.3 yards per contest.

The Sooners, who rank fourth in rushing defense with a yield of 88.5 yards per game to 99.8 for the Huskers, lead the nation in scoring defense with opponents scoring only 1.5 points per game while NU is yielding 6.8 points per outing.

All-Star Football Tilt

Slated For July 27

Chicago (UPI) — The 40th Annual All-Star Football Game sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., will be played next summer at Chicago's Soldier Field on July 27, it was announced Wednesday.

The game again will pit a picked squad of college football stars against the winner of the 1973 "Super Bowl" professional championship game.

CINCINNATI TRIPS OAKLAND

...Reds Cut A's Edge To One Game With 1-0 Win

Oakland (AP) — "I don't think," said Jack Billingham thoughtfully, "that I threw any bad pitches tonight."

The Oakland A's, who managed a mere three infield singles against Cincinnati's journeyman right-hander had to agree with that assessment after Billingham beat them 1-0 Wednesday night in game 3 of baseball's 1972 World Series.

Billingham worked eight brilliant innings that belied his record of 44-44. He had the A's off balance with a tough sinker that kept catching the strike zone.

"They took a lot of strikes low and away," said Billingham, "they were taking an awful lot of them. I have to keep the ball down to be effective."

Billingham was plenty effective and the A's, still leading the best-of-7 series 2-1, can be sure they will see him again if the Series goes back to Cincinnati.

Game 4 is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., CDT, Thursday, and game 5 for 4 p.m., EDT, Friday. Should the Series return to Cincinnati, games 6 and 7 will be played Saturday and Sunday at noon CDT.

Mostly fair weather is predicted at Oakland for Thursday night. The capacity Oakland Coliseum crowd of 49,410 rarely had a chance to cheer for the A's, who managed only one serious threat in the eight innings Billingham pitched.

When Billingham's first three pitches to Mike Epstein in the last of the ninth were balls, Manager Sparky Anderson lifted him for Reds' relief ace Clay Carroll.

Carroll who had 37 saves during the regular season, got a strike over to Epstein and then retired the A's slugger on a ground ball. He finished off Oakland by wiping out Sal Bando and George Hendrick, to preserve the victory.

For six innings, Billingham, a distant cousin to Hall of Fame pitcher Christy Mathewson, was engaged in a tense, scoreless duel with John "Blue Moon" Odom.

But in the seventh, the Reds finally got the run Billingham needed. Tony Perez opened with a sharp single to left and Denis Menke sacrificed.

Cesar Geronimo, hitless in his first nine World Series at bats, followed with a single through the middle. Perez steamed around third base and then tumbled in the soggy turf, still wet from 10 straight days of rain in the Bay area.

He scrambled to his feet and raced for the plate, sliding in, although the A's made no play on him.

The only hits Billingham allowed were a bunt single by Joe Rudi in the fourth, and infield hits by Dick Green in the fifth and pinch-hitter Gonzalo Marquez in the seventh. He walked three batters and struck out seven in the eight innings he worked.

The best chance the A's had at him came in the sixth inning when Bert Campaneris walked on four pitches leading off. With Oakland owner Charles O. Finley's electronic scoreboard automatically signalling "go, go, go" and "beep beep beep," Matty Alou bunted.

Catcher Johnny Bench fielded the ball but his throw to first pulled; Joe Morgan off the base, and Alou was safe. AS Bench began to argue the call. Morgan tried to catch Campaneris rounding second. But his throw sailed into center field and Campy raced to third.

Billingham bore down and got Rudi on a bouncer to third with Alou moving to second. Hitter Epstein, loading the bases. The move paid off when Bando jammed into an inning-ending double play.

The Reds had a similar threat in the fifth and that too was short circuited by some power pitching by Odom.

—BILLINGHAM LIKED CALLS— 'AL's Strike Zone May Have Helped'

OAKLAND (AP) — Big Jack Billingham confessed Wednesday night that he might have had some help from the American League's higher pitching zone in fashioning his three-hit 1-0 pitching victory over Oakland that brought the Cincinnati Reds back into the World Series.

"I was throwing my sinker," the strapping, 6-foot-4 right-hander from Winter Park, Fla., said after the game. "I was keeping the ball low and away, hitting the outside corner."

"I usually don't strike out that many (seven). I think it was partly due to the fact that the American League has a higher strike zone."

Billingham, 29, who kicked around the minors and found himself with three major league clubs before gaining a place with the Reds in the postseason 1971 trade with Houston, said he wasn't upset about being yanked by Manager Sparky Anderson after falling behind Mike Epstein 0-3 at the start of the ninth.

"When you get in the World Series, you just want to win," he said. "Sparky just said, 'hand me the ball.' He never has much conversation with me or any other pitcher when he is making the change."

The Athletics collected only three infield hits off Billingham in the tight defensive battle in which John "Blue Moon" Odom of the A's was overpowering for seven innings.

Billingham signed with Orlando in the Florida state league right out of high school in 1961.

He didn't get into the big leagues until 1963, with L.S. Angeles. In 1969 he went to Montreal in the expansion draft and later was traded to Houston in the deal for Rusty Staub.

He was a secondary figure in a trade at the end of last season in which he, Dennis Menke, Joe Morgan, Cesar Geronimo and Ed Armbrister went to the Reds for Lee May, Tommy Helms and Jimmy Stewart.

"Sparky Anderson called me and told me that they planned for me to be a starting pitcher," he said. He finished the season with a 12-12 record.

Billingham said he became so discouraged in the early part of his career that he almost quit baseball and returned to his Florida home to pump gas at his father's service station.

"I pumped gas all my life," he said. "I figured that was a better life than wandering around in the minor leagues."

Jaynes Doubtful For NU-KU Tilt

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — The quarterback situation at the University of Kansas is unchanged although Dave Jaynes continues to show improvement after suffering a shoulder bruise in his throwing arm against Kansas State.

"Dave is improving every day but I still don't think he'll play Saturday" against Nebraska, Coach Don Fambrough said Wednesday.

Fambrough said he will start either converted flanker Bruce Adams or reserve Bob Brueggeling at quarterback.

Cold Weather Hits Sooners

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Cold, windy drizzle hampered Oklahoma's football practice session Wednesday and coach Chuck Fairbanks said the Sooners will be hard pressed to make up for the lost time before Saturday's clash with Colorado.

"I'm not sure we accomplished all we wanted to today," said Fairbanks. "Today's weather threw us behind in our preparations. . . . We will have to make up the lost time in our practices Thursday and Friday. We weren't able to have the concentration we needed in our practice."

Fairbanks also said the squad would spend more time in team meetings and viewing films of the Buffaloes.

Not all the Sooners players were disturbed by the cold weather, however. Said fullback Leon Crosswhite, who is nursing a shoulder injury:

"I kinda like this kind of weather. I don't think my shoulder will tighten up. Anyway, the hot weather kind of makes me short of breath."

OU's Moore Gets Award

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Derland Moore admits to being "scared to death" when he walked onto the football practice field for the first time at the University of Oklahoma.

However, the huge defensive tackle didn't appear a bit scared Saturday as he charged relentlessly into a fine Texas line.

He accounted for two touchdowns by blocking a quick kick that a teammate recovered and later scored himself by pouncing on another loose ball.

Moore also was in on 10 tackles as OU won, 27-0. That's no small accomplishment when you consider he was playing against Jerry Sizemore, Texas' great offensive lineman.

"It was one of my best games," says the senior from Popular Bluff, Mo.

"Jerry Sizemore is a great tackle. I had to give it all I had on every play."

For giving it all he had, Moore, a 6-3, 246-pounder, was chosen as this week's national college lineman of the week by The Associated Press.

Nelsen Scores KO Triumph In Early First-Round Action

... WILSON GAINS TKO VICTORY

By RANDY EICKHOFF

Star Sports Writer

It takes two to make a fight, but in the main event of the second pro-am card staged in Lincoln this year by Jack Anderson Enterprises Wednesday night, it appeared the only one ready to fight was Randy Nelsen.

Nelsen, weighing 175, TKO'd Harold Murray (170) of Memphis, Tenn., in 44 seconds of the first round at the State Fairgrounds Coliseum, then said immediately after that he felt "embarrassed."

"I'm really embarrassed about the whole thing," Nelsen said. "I went in there to box six rounds and I wind up with someone like that."

He had something to gripe about. Nelsen's first punch, a left lead, sent Murray staggering to a corner resulting in referee Bill Engel giving him an eight count.

Nelsen looked towards his corner and when his second, Morris Jackson, a prominent heavyweight from Omaha, yelled: "Take him out!", Nelsen went to work with a vengeance.

A left-right-left combination sent Murray reeling, then a hard right to the mid-section ending the fight with Nelsen extending his professional record to 3-0. Murray entered with a 3-1 record.

"You know, it's really discouraging when you work as hard as I did then get a match like that. I've sparred over 20 rounds, did an awful lot of roadwork and really trained hard."

"But when I hit him the first time and he turned away, I thought: 'Should I carry him or what?' then when Morris said to take him out and get out of there, I did," he fumed.

But Nelsen's fight wasn't the only one that seemed to lack two fighters—Mike Wilson (136) had no trouble disposing of Willie Johnson (155), also of Memphis, in 1:15 of the second round in a preliminary bout.

Wilson, a two-time Midwest Golden Gloves champion, scored with a right to Johnson's solar plexus at the end of the first round.

Then Wilson scored with three more rights in the second and Johnson grabbed his stomach and rolled on the canvas.

It was the second pro victory for the stylish boxer, stretching his record to 2-0 — both fights ending via the TKO route.

After Wilson's fight, the Lincolnite left the ring in disgust. His opponent (1-3), without changing expression, appeared to recover quickly and walked unaided from the ring.

But in the first round, Wilson showed what a boxer can do. He easily slipped the few half-hearted punches thrown his way and scored repeatedly with his crisp, left jab before going to work on Johnson's mid-section.

After that brief pressure in the first, Johnson walked back to his corner hiding his stomach while Wilson watched in disbelief. The classy lightweight didn't even bother to sit down between rounds, leaning comfortably on the ropes while waiting for the bell for the second round.

But there were some good fights.

Monte Cady (164) of Lincoln scored a unanimous decision over Butch Bazis (159) through four rounds in a semi-main affair that had the disappointed of 337 applauding crowd midway through the final round.

Cady kept Bazis at a distance with stinging left jabs and sudden rights that the Omahan, slipping his probu, either slipped or blocked with his right.

When Bazis tried to mix it in close, Cady (1-0) willingly obliged then slipped away, scoring with his left jab again.

In the heavyweight match, Omaha Ron Douglas (1-2) scored a knockout over Clyde (Sandman) Brown of St. Louis (5-5) with a hard right that caught the Sandman on the chin and sent him crashing to the mat in 1:11 of the first.

In another preliminary match, Lincolnite Lonnie Crosby TKO'd Sammy Black of Memphis in 2:42 of the third round after rocking Black with several sledge hammer rights that landed on Black's ribs.

Devaney Praises KU Offense

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska football coach Bob Devaney, who allowed last week that he wasn't very interested in offensive statistics except the one you can see on the scoreboard, showed a similar response Wednesday when informed that his Huskers were the only team in the nation in the top 10 in all four defensive categories.

The Huskers are fourth nationally in total defense, ninth in pass defense, ninth in rushing defense and fifth in scoring defense.

"That's nice," was his response. "But the only one that really counts is the defense against scoring offense."

At the same time, Devaney figures Kansas, Saturday's opponent at Lawrence, "will be the best offensive team we've faced since UCLA."

"They've got some outstanding players at the skilled position (quarterback, receivers and runners)."

This, he said, always presents more of a danger of an upset occurring.

"Any time you've got good players to catch the ball and to run with it, if the other guys get inspired, they can raise hell with you," he pointed out.

In the skilled positions, the Jayhawks have David Jaynes at quarterback, although he's doubtful because of a bruised shoulder, John Schroll at tight end, Bruce Adams at flanker, Robert Miller at fullback and Delvin Williams at tailback.

Jaynes is the Big Eight's leading passer with 84 completions on 151 attempts for 1,204 yards. Adams is the league's No. 2 receiver with 23 catches for 471 yards while Schroll is No. 5 with 17 for 162 yards and Miller No. 8 with 15 for 137. Williams is averaging 5.2 yards per carry on 50 carries.

NCAA Council Meets To Discuss Changes

Kansas City (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association Council will meet at Knoxville, Tenn., next week to discuss continued refinement of legislative reorganization and financial aid.

The sessions, from Oct. 23 through Oct. 25, will receive reports on reactions to proposals in reorganization and financial aid from member institutions.

The council then is expected to adopt specific amendments to be considered by the NCAA's 67th annual convention in Chicago Jan. 11-13.

McCafferty—Too Lenient?

Baltimore (AP) — Mike Curtis, the outspoken middle linebacker of the Baltimore Colts, said Wednesday the National Football League team has been losing because deposed head coach Don McCafferty was too lenient.

"McCafferty was too good natured, and it backed up on him," Curtis said. "The players took advantage of him."

McCafferty, replaced by defensive line coach John Sandusky Monday after Baltimore lost its fourth decision in five starts, was known as the "Easy Rider" because of his low-key approach in handling his personnel. But Curtis said players "need somebody over them all the time."

McCafferty became head coach in 1970 when Don Shula left to take over the Miami Dolphins. The Colts won the Super Bowl that season, and last year lost the American Football Conference title game 21-0 to Miami.

Two Lincoln Teams Favored To Triumph

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

It was nice, even though it may happen only once all season.

The prep picker had seven whole days to enjoy that 80 per cent prediction mark he hit last week.

Things, however, have returned to normal. He dipped to 74 per cent, but it still ranks as the season's second best forecasting week.

Last week's log showed 123 correct forecasts, 45 wrong and four ties. The effort raised the season mark a minuscule one-thousandth percentage point to .741 with 763 right, 266 wrong and 37 ties.

Hoping to return to the 80 per cent plateau, we see:

Lincoln Southeast vs. Lincoln East, Friday night, Seacrest Field — Remember last year? East took an unbeaten record and No. 1 rating into the late-season contest and came out a 34-18 loser. The Spartans take a No. 3 rating and unbeaten record into the game this time. Southeast may have the better quarterback in Rick Reynolds, but East has more overall strength and very likely the best defense in the state.

Omaha Gross at Lincoln Pius X, Friday night, Pius Stadium — Gross may be the most powerful Class B team in the state. The Cougars are unbeaten and unchallenged. They've won 59-0, 35-0 (over 10th-ranked Omaha Cathedral), 42-7 (over Class A Omaha Northwest), 51-0 and 40-0. They'll never reach such astronomical scoring totals against a Vince Aldrich team, but they should win.

Lincoln High at North Platte, Friday night — The Platters have won four in a row after season-opening losses to Lincoln Southeast (21-13) and Kearney (7-6). They have their eye on a Class A rating and aren't about to stumble against a team which hasn't won a Class A game.

Grand Island vs. Lincoln Northeast, Saturday night, Seacrest Field — The Islanders showed positive signs two weeks ago when they upset Southeast. If they can beat the Knights, they have the ability to beat the Rockets. But Northeast has too much riding on the outcome.

The list of unbeaten eight-man teams should dwindle to eight this weekend as three games match unbeaten teams. In those, we see Odell over Adams, Ft. Calhoun over Cedar Bluffs and Republican City over Doniphan.

The key game in the state may be second-ranked Class B Cozad at eighth-ranked Minden. The prep picker gives Cozad a slight edge. Another key Class B battle sends ninth-ranked Sidney, our choice, to once-beaten Kimball.

In important Class A contests, we see seventh-ranked Creighton Prep over 10th-ranked Omaha Benson and fifth-ranked Omaha Westside over ninth-ranked Omaha North.

In interesting matchups elsewhere, the prep picker sees Auburn over Fairbury, Aurora over Central City, Millard over Beatrice, York over Centennial, Fremont over Columbus, David City over Crete, Falls City over Nebraska City, Fremont Bergan over Omaha Cathedral, Norfolk over Hastings, Seward over Waverly and Columbus Seotus over David City Aquinas.

Maxine Proctor
Future Bride

Rodgers Planning Marriage

By Associated Press

Nebraska football standout Johnny Rodgers disclosed Wednesday he plans to marry Maxine Proctor, who works for Playboy magazine in Chicago in a public relations capacity.

"We have not set a date but we have decided that is what we are going to do," Rodgers said.

He said he met Miss Proctor in Chicago last spring when he and other players were brought in by the magazine.

He said he has made several trips to Chicago to see her, and she in turn has visited Nebraska, although not since the football season began.

Whether the wedding might take place yet this year, Rodgers couldn't say.

"I've got a lot of problems to take care of first," he said, including the matter of a possible professional contract when his collegiate grid career ends at the close of the current season.

"Then there's this 30-day thing and some others," he said, referring to his current appeal from a 30-day jail term imposed in Lincoln for driving on a suspended driver's license.

"I've just got too many problems to burden someone else with them yet — until I get them taken care of."

Big Eight Statistics

Kansas City, Mo. — Nebraska kicker Rich Sanger, who started the season near the bottom of the Big Eight statistics in punting, has now kicked himself within one-tenth of a yard of leading the league.

Sanger, averaging 41.0 yards on 11 kicks, ranks second to Kansas State's Joe Brandt's 41.1 average on 38 punts.

Tennis Facility To Open Nov. 15

The Lincoln Racket Club plans to open its new indoor tennis facility in Lincoln Nov. 15, according to club representative Wallace Rudolph.

He said the facility, with four courts, will be the second such indoor facility in the state, the other being the Hanscom Park facility in Omaha.

The Lincoln Club operates on a private membership basis, and about 150 have joined. Membership will be limited to 400 and if that level is reached in the first year, two more indoor courts will be added, Rudolph said.

Proposed Amendment No. 1

A vote FOR this proposal will require that a person elected or appointed to the Legislature must be a registered voter and twenty-one years of age on the date of the election at which he is elected or appointed; in addition, it will make corrections in terminology in the provisions concerning the impeachment of public officers necessitated by the change from a two-house legislature to the unicameral legislature.

A vote AGAINST this proposal will have the effect of establishing the age of eighteen as the age at which persons would be eligible for election or appointment as members of the Legislature; and it would retain the present outdated terminology in the impeachment section referring to a two-house legislature.

TEXT OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

Be it enacted by the people of the State of Nebraska,

Section 1. That at the general election in November, 1972, there shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval the following amendment to Article III, sections 8, 17, and 27, of the Constitution of Nebraska, which is hereby proposed by the Legislature:

"Sec. 8. No person shall be eligible to the office of member of the Legislature unless on the date of the general election at which he is elected or on the date of his appointment he is a registered voter, has attained the age of twenty-one years and has resided within the district from which he is elected for the term of one year next before his election, unless he shall have been absent on the public business of the United States or of this State. And no person elected as aforesaid shall hold his office after he shall have removed from such district.

Sec. 17. The Legislature shall have the sole power of impeachment, but a majority of the members elected must concur therein. Upon the adoption of a resolution of impeachment a notice of an impeachment of any officer, other than a Judge of the Supreme Court, shall be forthwith served upon the Chief Justice, by the Clerk of the Legislature, who shall thereupon call a session of the Supreme Court to meet at the Capitol within ten days after such notice to try the impeachment. A notice of an impeachment of the Chief Justice or any Judge of the Supreme Court shall be served by the Clerk of the Legislature, upon any Judge of the judicial district within which the Capitol is located, and he thereupon shall notify all the Judges of the District Court in the State to meet with him within thirty days at the Capitol, to sit as a Court to try such impeachment, which Court shall organize by electing one of its number to preside. No person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members of that Court of impeachment, but judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than removal from office and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, profit, or trust, in this State, but the party impeached, whether convicted or acquitted shall nevertheless be liable to prosecution and punishment according to law. No officer shall exercise his official duties after he shall have been impeached and notified thereof, until he shall have been acquitted.

Sec. 27. No act shall take effect until three calendar months after the adjournment of the session at which it passed, unless in case of emergency, to be expressed in the preamble or body of the act, the Legislature shall, by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected otherwise direct. All laws shall be published in book form within sixty days after the adjournment of each session and distributed among the several counties in such manner as the Legislature may provide."

Proposed Amendment No. 2

A vote FOR this proposal will reduce the vote required to change the number of judges of the district court and alter the boundaries of judicial districts from two-thirds of the members of the Legislature, and will remove obsolete language referring to the former bicameral legislature.

A vote AGAINST this proposal will retain the present requirement of a two-thirds vote of the members of the Legislature to change the number of judges of the district court and alter the boundaries of judicial districts, and will retain the obsolete language referring to the former bicameral legislature.

Each judicial nominating commission shall consist of nine members, one of whom shall be a judge of the Supreme Court who shall be designated by the Governor and shall not be entitled to vote. The members of the bar of the state residing in the area from which the nominees are to be selected shall designate four of their number to serve as members of said commission, and the Governor shall appoint four citizens, not admitted to practice law before the courts of the state, from among the residents of the same geographical area to serve as members of said commission. Not more than four of such voting members shall be of the same political party. The terms of office for members of each judicial nominating commission shall be staggered and shall be fixed by the Legislature. The members of any such commission cannot include a member of such commission or any person who has served as a member of such commission within a period of two years immediately preceding his nomination or for such additional period as the Legislature shall provide. The names of candidates shall be released to the public prior to a public hearing.

(5) Members of the nominating commission shall vote for the nominees of their choice by roll call. Each candidate must receive a majority of the voting members of the nominating commission to have his name submitted to the Governor.

A vote AGAINST this proposal will prevent the state and local governments from adjusting retirement benefits of retired public employees because of conditions occurring after the dates of retirement.

Segretti Called Up To Help McGovern

The New York Times

Los Angeles — A young lawyer who has been linked to an alleged campaign of political espionage against the Democrats apparently volunteered to work for Sen. George McGovern in the California primary last June.

It has also been learned that at least three telephone calls were placed to McGovern's state headquarters from the home of the lawyer, Donald H. Segretti.

Records in McGovern's campaign headquarters in Santa Monica disclosed that someone identifying himself as Segretti appeared there and offered to work on June 3 just before the June 6 primary.

In addition, the records indicate that on at least three occasions, someone answering Segretti's phone said he would canvass a precinct or help distribute leaflets. But there is no indication that he ever did any work, and his card is now in the file of less active volunteers.

First Evidence
Several persons have told the New York Times that Segretti tried to enlist them in efforts to frustrate the Democratic campaign. But the cards on file in Santa Monica are the first solid evidence that Segretti himself had sought to become involved directly in the McGovern campaign.

The New York Times reported Wednesday morning that at least 28 phone calls charged to Segretti's home phone or his credit card were made last spring to the White House to the home phone of Dwight L. Chapin, a close aide to President Nixon, and to the home or office of E. Howard Hunt Jr., a former White House consultant who has been indicted in the alleged bugging of the Democratic National Headquarters.

Chapin and Hunt had previously been identified in news reports as Segretti's Washington contact for an alleged campaign of harassment and disruption against Democratic candidates.

Operation Can Reverse Vasectomy

New York (AP) — The birth control surgery that makes men sterile can apparently be reversed so they could father babies again, a surgeon reported Wednesday.

The operation known as vasectomy cuts the tubes that carry sperm, through which spermatozoa pass. Once performed, it has been considered to make men sterile forever.

But the tubes can be rejoined in surgery performed under a microscope, Dr. Julius H. Jacobson of Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York told a conference in Vienna, Austria.

The microscope vision makes the tiny severed tubes appear 25 times larger than they actually are so the surgeon can sew the ends together again and make sure the tubes are open once more, he said.

Speaking to the International Symposium of Microsurgery, Dr. Jacobson said he has done the reversal operation on 19 men. Eighteen of them became able to produce motive or active sperm on ejaculation, he said. The other man had suffered damage to his testes during the vasectomy, and did not produce sperm.

TELEPHONE STRIKES

One of the protruding telephone boxes in a narrow sidewalk of Sao Paulo, Brazil, was hit accidentally by this man's head, to the astonishment of the woman behind him. The man sank to the pavement in pain with a bleeding head wound, his number obviously being up.

Dirty Movies Stolen From Censor's Office

Baltimore (UPI) — Police reported Wednesday that 13 uncensored reels of film showing 'acts of sexual nature' were stolen from a plain brown paper bag at the Maryland Board of Motion Picture Censors.

The films were valued at $195.
